U. S. AIR MAIL
SCANDALS.

INFORMATION LEAKAGE SUSPECTED.

Washington, Mar. 5. Evidence that a block of 4,500 United Aircraft shares were sold on behalf of the J. P. Morgan Company a fortnight before the cancellation of the air mail contracts, was presented before the Senate Banking Committee to-day in a list of sellers submitted by the New York Stock Exchange.

The Committee ordered a thorough investigation to determine whether there was a leakage of information concerning the Government's decision to cancel the air mail contracts.—Reuter.

SAVED FROM AN ICY GRAVE
DARING RESCUE
BY AIRMEN
OF CHELIUSKIN
VICTIMS

(Special to "Telegraph")
By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic
Mails, Ordinance, 1884. Received March
6, 10 a.m.

Moscow, Mar. 6. Ten women and two children have been rescued from an icy grave by two Russian fliers, who made a successful flight to the ice-floe camp of the Cheliuskin passengers.

According to a radio report from Cape Wellen, two Soviet fliers, Lipidevsky and Petrov, set off from Cape Wellen in a ten-passenger aeroplane and flew to the marooned passengers of the sunken ice-breaker Cheliuskin, and effected the rescue of ten women and two children.

They landed them safely at Cape Wellen despite being faced with the difficulties of landing on frost-bound ground in 40 degrees of frost.

TERRIFYING PLIGHT.

The victims of the sunken ice-breaker have been in a terrifying plight since February 13. The Cheliuskin sank 160 miles from Cape Severn, but with the exception of two members of the crew, the 72 people on board were saved from drowning.

They encamped on drifting ice-floes awaiting the arrival of rescue parties.

Fears that the passengers might die from exposure hastened efforts to send out rescuers and boats were sent rushing from Cape Severn and Cape Wellen.

The Cheliuskin, a Soviet ice-breaker, was cracked like a nut-shell by the terrific force of ice-blocks, and sank within a short time.—United Press.

ACTION

SHAKESPEARE QUOTED
BY JUDGE

(Special to "Telegraph")
By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic
Mails, Ordinance, 1884. Received March
6, 10 a.m.

London, Mar. 5. Damages amounting to no less a sum than £25,000 were to-day awarded to Princess Irina Youssoupoff against the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation at the conclusion of the five-day trial in the King's Bench Division.

The Princess brought a libel action against the Corporation, alleging that in the film, "Rasputin, the Mad Monk," the character Natasha, who is Rasputin's mistress in the film, refers to her.

Objection was taken on the ground that the Princess was libelled inasmuch as she was depicted as having been seduced and ravished by Rasputin.—United Press.

SHAKESPEARE QUOTED.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic
Mails, Ordinance, 1884. Received March
6, 10 a.m.)

London, Mar. 5.

In the Rasputin film libel suit, the jury took over two hours to consider their verdict.

Mr. Justice Avery gave a brilliant summing-up, in the course of which he quoted a verse from Shakespeare's "Rape of Lucrece," beginning "But she has lost a dearer thing than life."

A VILE LIBEL.

His Lordship said it was difficult to imagine a worse libel upon a happily-married woman, a woman whose virtue nobody dared cast a slur, than to say she was seduced or ravished by such a villain as Rasputin.

That, said Mr. Justice Avery, was the vilest libel imaginable.—Reuter's Special Service.

WORLD COTTON
STATISTICS

GREATER ACTIVITY OF MILLS

London, Mar. 5.

The world's cotton mill consumption for the half-year ended January 31st was 12,610,000 bales, this being an increase of 637,000 bales, according to statistics compiled by the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and the Manufacturers' Association.

The largest increase was in East Indian cotton, the consumption of which was 2,352,000 bales, an increase of 294,000 bales.

The world's mill stocks were 5,216,000, against 4,642,000 in January, 1933.

The world's spindleage was 157,631,000, compared with 167,765,000 last July, the British being 49,001,000 and the Japanese 8,209,000 last August, compared with 57,136,000 and 6,272,000 respectively, in 1928.—Reuter.

ACTIVITY
OUTSIDE
GT. WALL

STRICT MEASURES
BEING TAKEN

THREAT TO UPSET
CORONATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

Tientsin, March 6.

Strict precautionary measures are being simultaneously taken by the Chinese and Japanese authorities within and outside the Great Wall.

While the Chinese authorities in the Luan-tung district are keeping a sharp lookout for traitors who are reported to be seeking opportunities to create disturbances in connexion with the coronation of P. Y. Li, the Manchukuo-Japanese garrison forces in the Chin-chow districts are fully occupied with the task of suppressing so-called bandit activities, which are particularly rife in the villages around Sui-chung and Chin-chow.

VOLUNTEER RISING.

No detailed reports are available in regard to the actual extent of the Chinese Volunteer activity outside the Great Wall, but it is significant that a circular telegram issued in the name of the Chinese Volunteer Army in Manchuria appeared in the Chinese press yesterday. This telegram stated, inter alia, that the Volunteers had started a general mobilisation against the Japanese regime in Manchuria and "Chinese traitors." Big awards are being offered for the heads of 200 notorious "traitors," including Chen Shao-su and other Ministers of the Manchukuo Cabinet.

Meanwhile, the situation in Tientsin is quiet. No incident attended the Japanese manoeuvres which concluded yesterday.—Central News.

BRITISH POSTAL CHANGES

NEW ALLOCATION OF REVENUE

London, Mar. 5.

Sir Ernest Bonnett, Assistant Postmaster General, in a speech at Rugby referring to the changes taking place in the administrative management of the Post Office, said that at the end of the month it would enter on a new stage of its financial development, in accordance with the recommendations of the Bridgeman Committee.

Hitherto the revenue earned by the Post Office had been handed over to the Exchequer. In future, a definite sum of £10,750,000 would be contributed to the national revenue, and any surplus would be retained by the Post Office and expended for the benefit of the public generally in the development of services or reduction of charges.

The scheme was experimental, but it had every prospect of proving an outstanding success.—British Wireless.

RESCUE OF MAROONED
FISHERMEN.

FINE WORK BY STEAMERS AND AEROPLANES.

Moscow, Mar. 5.

All but 84 of the 400 marooned fishermen, victims adrift on an ice-block which broke away from the ice-field in the Caspian Sea, have now been rescued.

Steamers and aeroplanes have been used for this purpose, and it is hoped that the rescue of the remaining men, who are still marooned on the ice-blocks, will be shortly accomplished.—Reuter.

SENATOR BORAH'S
WAR PICTURE

Washington, March 5.

If war should come between the United States and Japan, American soldiers "would be torn limb from limb and disembowelled by munitions sold by our own compatriots," declared Senator Borah in opposing the $500,000,000 Naval Construction Bill on which the Senate will vote to-morrow.

Senator Borah asserted that American munition manufacturers were selling their products to the Orient.

It was not believed that arms manufacturers could cause a Japanese-American war, added Senator Borah, but if it should come, "even the approaching hour of the conflict would not stay the insatiable greed of the munitions manufacturers."—Reuter.

INFRINGEMENT OF TRADE MARKS

FURTHER PROTEST TO JAPAN

London, Mar. 5.

Mr. Sommerville, Conservative M.P., this evening, drew the attention of the House of Commons to the number of lawsuits pending in Britain against Japanese representatives for the infringement of trade marks and the representation of Japanese goods as British.

Dr. E. Leslie Burgh, replying on behalf of Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, said the British Ambassador to Tokyo was recently instructed to make representations to the Japanese Government with a view to the suppression of these acts of unfair competition.—Reuter.

The Mission has already visited Italy and Turkey, and will be proceeding to Poland.—Reuter.

THE FAILURE OF DEMOCRACY

ROOSEVELT EXPOSES
PAST WEAKNESS

MALDISTRIBUTION
OF WEALTH

DECLARING THAT THE MACHINERY OF DEMOCRACY IN THE UNITED STATES HAD FAILED TO FUNCTION THROUGH INERTIA,
PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT YESTERDAY MADE AN ELOQUENT APPEAL TO INDUSTRY TO REDUCE WORKING HOURS STILL FURTHER
AS A MEANS OF EFFECTING RE-EMPLOY-MENT.

Mr. Roosevelt defended his recovery measures, and declared that never again could they permit social conditions allowing vast sections of the population to exist in a way which permitted maldistribution of wealth and power.

The President did not oppose reasonable profits, but when it came to a question of humanity, people in actual distress must first be considered.

CALL FOR REDUCED WORKING HOURS

Washington, Mar. 5. A clarion call to industry to immediately further reduce working hours, as a means to spreading employment and re-employment of more people at living wages, was sounded by President Roosevelt when addressing an assembly of N.R.A. Code officials to-day.

"Only by this means can we continue on the road to recovery and restore the balance we seek," the President declared.

President Roosevelt stressed the point that people of the United States whose incomes were less than $2,000 per annum bought over two thirds of all the goods sold in the country. Therefore, he said, it was logical that if the total amount paid in wages to this group were steadily increased, merchants, employers and investors in the long run would get more income from an increased volume of sales.

"NEVER AGAIN." A year ago, when collapse was imminent, they undertook, by law, constitutional processes, to reorganise a disintegrating system.

The situation in March, 1933, was so serious, he said, that remedies had to be applied to every phase of the illness. Their objective had been and was to apply remedies in the American people.

The President recalled the position of the banks a year ago and added that the telegram was a living illustration of the progress made by the Administration. He appealed to the officials to consolidate their gains and resolve that the consolidation should lead to continued progress, and especially to the greater happiness and well-being of the American people.

TO MAKE ECONOMIC SURVEY

Mr. Child's Mission For President Roosevelt

New York, March 5. Mr. Richard Washburn Child, who was adviser to Mr. Cordell Hull, U. S. Secretary of State, at the World Economic Conference, is leaving for London on the 14th instant for a three months' economic survey of Europe.

It is stated that Mr. Child will not be empowered to make any commitments on behalf of the United States in regard to stabilisation of currency, war debts, or any other outstanding questions, but he will not be restricted with regard to the questions he may discuss with European statesmen.

Mr. Child, when questioned regarding his tour, said he understood that President Roosevelt wanted to know what "the other fellows" are doing to aid the economic rehabilitation of the world.—Reuter.

Breeze into Spring Style in the Windblown Silhouette

The wind-blown silhouette is on with sash ends, ruffles, panels, plump, while a swooping plumed breezing along into fashion significance at a great clip with all indication of a cyclone by spring. The organdie gown at the left is on your back with coat colours and lapels, jabots, ties, skirt fullness placed to extend straight out from the front of the costume. But in the evening we greet the gala head-with sash ends, ruffles, panels plump, while a swooping plumed and even the coiffure fluttering out there at the back extends from the waist into a moderate train. Yellow taffeta forms the dress at the back than at the front. The skirt has added fullness from this flare to the floor. Two huge bows of burgundy velvet are placed, one at the waistline and one at the back of the knee.

Assuming a light and airy manner might add to the wearing of these clothes, but windy talking is not guaranteed to please.

YOUR CHILDREN.

Youth vs. Experience

By Olive Roberts Barton

The time is past when Ma or Pa Smith have to call in son Benjamin from the hay field to read Aunt Sophie's last letter. And Aunt Sophie's letter itself to-day is spelled correctly, contains the right number of capitals and periods and is no relation whatsoever to that classic epistle of some fifty years ago.

Parents to-day are literate and educated, largely speaking. Except in a very few communities we find it so. Two reasons. Compulsory education laws that have for years escorted the young to the gates of high school and beyond, and greatly reduced immigration.

Therefore any patronage or condescension on the part of youth for pater or mater familias is unwarranted and ignorant. It was unwaranted and ignorant anyway, even in the days when Pa or Ma Smith had to add their cross to the mortgage papers under Lawyer Brown's handwriting.

YOUTHFUL ARROGANCE.

Nothing makes me so furious, or fills me with such righteous disgust

as to hear some young smarty laugh at his parents because they don't know who Proust is, or when they prefer "Old Black Joe" to "Rhapsody in Something or Other."

When an over-blooded youth won't ride with his father because he drives only 35 miles an hour, and calls him "old" and "nervous," latent spite kicks aside my patience and I picture a particularly desert isle, a leaky boat and a rough sea, with this boy in the boat. See then what he could do for himself in a world not already made for him!

Or the girl who teases her mother about her obtuseness in catching on to new wise cracks, styles and the latest word in compacta.

We have to allow for youth. It has ever been patronizing to maturity and age, but in the old days it had to learn two things—respect and patience—it seldom "patronized." It may even have feared, but with a good healthy fear, I think it is good to fear sometimes, because human nature is so constituted that fear begets honour, and honour is the father of respect and patience and a lot of other things needed to season the heart.

EXPERIENCE LACKING.

One thing that fathers—the disrespect of those over forty is the youth movement in our economic world. Companies everywhere are employing boys and discarding me who know anything. Try to find a middle-aged or near-middle-aged woman a job. Beauty is supplanting brains.

We've turned muscular and sentimental. And it is silly. Even the brain of a young man or young woman, however packed with "logies" and "ometries" and the fetus of Phi Beta Kappa keys, is muscular, over-emotional, and too full of blood. Risk is the middle name, and so-called Progress.

They are not seasoned, these young minds. They lack the greatest teacher of all, Experience.

Youth has its place, but not at the helm—either in politics, industry or the home. We need youth, its courage and its light heart, but what we can do without is its arrogance, patronage and leadership. And sponging.

However, as it is the home I particularly champion, I still contend that parents hold the aces. All they need is the courage to bid and the score is theirs.

Benefits of Soapless Shampoos

Using a soapless shampoo is one way of making sure that there will be no soapy deposits on your hair when you have finished washing it.

Soapless shampoos are marvelous—or any head of hair but are specially recommended for girls with super-fine hair. Be sure and select one made by a reliable manufacturer and don't confuse soapless shampoo with dry shampoo.

Rinse your hair to loosen the excess dirt and dust. Then pour about three tablespoonsfuls of the soapless shampoo oil right on the top of your head. Rub it around on your scalp and through your hair until each section is saturated. Rinse with warm water a couple of times and then put on another dose of the soapless shampoo oil. Massage it into the scalp with your finger tips. In other words, use it the same as you would use a liquid soap shampoo.

Rinse your hair first with quite hot water, then with water slightly cooler. Keep on changing the water, making it a little cooler each time until the final rinse is almost cold.

FIGHTING FLIGHT

FIGHTING FLIGHT

Forgotten Sweetheart by MARY RAYMOND

CHAPTER XXV

Pat's illness climaxed two weeks of hunting for a job without encouragement. As the days passed, the loneliness had begun to oppress her, and her appetite failed. Often she had been too tired to prepare food and her evening meal would be only a can of soup.

At the end of each day she was just a little more discouraged than before. "Return the first or next month. Things might open up by then." Other executives were less encouraging. Summer, they said, was a poor time to be job hunting. Everything was slack. And on and on.

"I'll get a job if there's one to be had in New York." Pat had thought. Her fighting spirit was aroused. She had heard of girls, whipped into accepting defeat, but they had, not the same incentive she had.

She couldn't go back to Memphis where everybody stared and whispered "that's the girl who was with Jerry Forrester when he was killed. They'd been at a road house."

Pat's curved lips set in a straight line at the thought, and she drove herself a little harder. She was thinner and she had developed a cold. She had intended to stop at the drug store on the corner and get something for it, but always she seemed too tired, or too engrossed in her thoughts when she passed.

One morning she awakened to the sound of rain. That meant losing another day. It might mean a job lost. And it meant, too, a whole day to be spent alone.

A day alone would be intolerable. What was a little rain? Pat told herself she could walk close to the side of storm on her way to the subway. And on the way home she would buy a bottle of cough medicine. There had been a dull ache in her chest for two days now.

She almost gave up the idea of going out while she was eating her breakfast. She felt chilled and tired. Her head was aching dreadfully. If there were no advertisements that looked encouraging, maybe she would stay at home after all.

She ran downstairs to the apartment occupied by Mrs. Baker, her landlady, who saved the morning newspaper for her. Mrs. Baker had seemed grateful because Pat had paid an entire month's rent in advance.

Back in her room, Pat turned to the "Help Wanted—Female" column. The first advertisement caught her eye: "Wanted, young girl of neat appearance and pleasing personality. Swift typist and accurate. In shorthand. Good job for right party."

Pat had been considered a good stenographer and an accurate and rapid typist. "I can't miss that," she decided. "I'll get ready early. The early bird lands the job."

But when Pat, in her damp coat and soaked hat, reached the address, she found the outside hall half-filled with girls, though a sign had been conspicuously posted on a closed door, "Please has been filled."

A girl with dark, cynical eyes looked hard at Pat and said in an audible voice to another girl, "The depression must be hard on a lot of office wives! Even the prettiest don't get jobs these days."

Pat left, feeling very sick and blue. She caught the surface car home. It was a long, tiring ride and she was shaking when she got off the car.

In her eagerness to reach her room she passed the drug store again without stopping. The shaking had increased and Pat got in bed, pulling all the covers she could over herself, and adding her winter coat.

She was having a chill. It had been stupid to go out. And there was no medicine. Perhaps she would feel better after a while.

Perhaps the rain would stop and she could go to the drug store and begin to feel hot, terribly hot and dizzy. Oh, is only Joan were here! What was the name of the hotel where Joan was staying?

Oh, yes, she remembered—the Breckinridge. When she felt better, she would call Mrs. Baker and ask her to telephone Joan.

Barney and Joan entered the bare little room where Pat had been waging her game fight. Now Joan was on her knees, her lips against Pat's cheek, her tears on Pat's white face.

The doctor, a worried nervous little man, came forward. "She doesn't know, any one," he said. "She's been delirious for hours."

"You're the sister?" Mrs. Baker asked. When Joan nodded, the woman continued. "We tried to get you at the hotel. They said you had gone."

Joan felt she was being punished for her carelessness in not leaving a forwarding address—punished more than she could bear.

Barney left the room to find a telephone. He called a hospital.

"It's pneumonia. I want the best doctor you can get!" he stated briefly.

Then another call, relief in his tone. "As fast as you can get here, doctor. And bring your best nurse."

By night Pat's room had taken on a different aspect. A uniformed nurse was moving capably about.

One of New York's most famous physicians sat close by the bed, watching the still, white face, placing a practiced hand on the fluttering pulse.

Joan was sitting beside the window, praying fervently. She had refused to leave Pat even for a short time. And then toward morning a smile lightened the grave face of the physician. The tension was lifted. "You must get some sleep now," the nurse said to Joan. "Your sister is better. She is going to get well."

Joan went across the narrow hall to throw herself across the bed and weep her heart out, thankfully.

But vigilance was not relaxed.

Joan stayed at the dingy rooming house and Barney spent much of his time there, ready to rush off in his car if there were errands.

On the fourth day Pat's blue eyes, deep now in a white face which seemed much too small for them, opened wide. "Lo, Joan."

"Darling, darling! You're better. You are going to get well and strong now." Joan was holding Pat close.

"Sick long?" "It has seemed a long time, dearest."

"The big, strong man?" "Just Barney, Pat."

A faint smile on Pat's face. "Nice!" "Wonderful!"

"She's always over-rating," said Pat, a ghost of her old, teasing smile playing over her face.

"She's well," Barney said, laughing.

"Don't talk now, darling," said Joan. And Pat, wearily, obediently, like a child, turned her face against the pillow and slept.

The nurse came in and Joan and Barney slipped quietly from the room.

"Get your hat," Barney said, "I'm going to take you for a little ride. You're worn out."

They drove by the Jigsaw because Barney wanted to leave some instructions for his secretary. He handed Joan an afternoon newspaper.

"Back in a minute," he said. Joan scanned the front page briefly, passing quickly over headlines on other pages. When she reached the society page her heart contracted suddenly. There was a two column picture of Barbara Courtney. A paragraph below stated that the first of a series of affairs planned for the southern visitor would be a house party at Watch Hill, the beautiful country estate of Mr. Robert Weston, Sr., the newspaper shook under Joan's trembling hands. Pain stabbed her. The old pain. Barbara and Bob were engaged, of course, planning perhaps to be married soon.

Barney came back and Joan managed somehow to answer his gay banter. Shadows were falling to the swing around the curving drive.

Where was her pride, Joan asked herself. How could she let herself care after all this time?

And then Barney's voice, a little unsteady with emotion and very tender. "Joan, dear, I haven't meant to rush you. But I can't bear seeing you troubled like this. I love you. Won't you let me take care of you and Pat always?"

He had stopped the car. Suddenly Joan was crying in the comforting circle of Barney's arms.

Verging On Breakdown

When Nerves and Temper Got All Awry, Your Urgent Need Is Tonic Treatment With

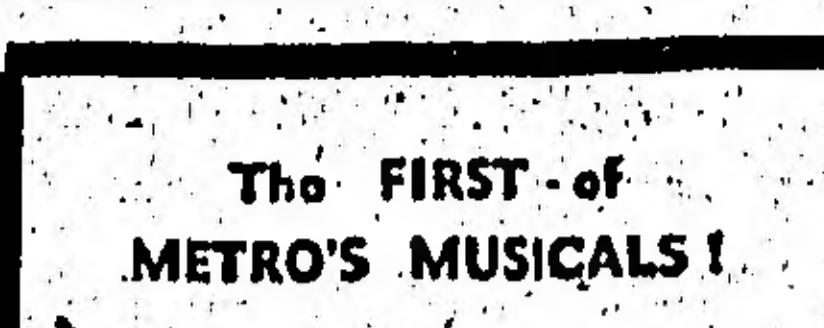

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Business men everywhere are feeling the strain of present day perplexing times. Some can withstand it—those who are youthful, robust, and organically fit—but many find these daily worries severely trying to temper and nerves, with restless nights, fitful appetite, impaired digestion and loss of flesh and cheerfulness their natural consequences.

The sufferer from mental overstrain should not accept the situation with stoical fortitude, hoping that it will right itself unaided. To do so may be calamitous, for a real nervous breakdown can easily follow such neglect, with disastrous results to the victim, as well as to those dependent upon him.

What is needed is an immediate course of nerve restorative treatment—through the blood—to provide which there is absolutely nothing so good as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

By rapidly increasing the haemoglobin and red corpuscle content of the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills impart new energy, vigour and strength to the whole system, at the same time restoring appetite, cheerfulness and spirits. If your blood is thin, if you are weak, nervous, rundown, depressed, begin a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills without delay, and you will surely be gratified with the results. Chemists everywhere can supply them.

RADIOPHONE SERVICES

There will be general agreement with the view expressed at yesterday's meeting of the Hongkong Telephone Company that everything possible should be done to expedite the inauguration of a radio telephone service which will link Hongkong with the outside world. The Company, with characteristic enterprise, has been keenly interested in this matter for a very considerable time, but circumstances have militated against a fulfilment of its hopes. Had these hopes been realised, telephone-users in Hongkong would by now have been able to speak by word of mouth with people in practically every big city of the world. Due to a variety of reasons, including the effect of the depression on Imperial and International Communications, Ltd., negotiations with the concern have terminated without result. The Hongkong Government is, however, now taking the matter up from another angle, and the expectation is that a service will be available some time next year. No indication is forthcoming as to the nature of the new plans, excepting that the intention is to work through Shanghai. This is in line with the suggestion thrown out by the General Post Office in London towards the latter part of last year when a Telegraph representative discussed the project with Government officials there. Already Shanghai has been actively engaged in working out its plans. At the Chenju wireless station, there has been installed a big plant providing direct telegraphic service with London, and this has been followed up by trial tests of direct radio talks, which are said to have been most satisfactory. It is therefore clear that Shanghai is going ahead in determination to make use of modern means of rapid communication with the outside world. With matters so well advanced, it should be possible for Hongkong to come into the link without undue delay. If, as seems to be the case, the Hongkong Government is in a position to exercise an influence on the conclusion of the necessary arrangements, it is sincerely to be hoped that this Colony is at an early date given its rightful place in the network of services now covering the greater part of the globe.

BRITAIN'S CABINET

Rumours of a reshuffling of the British Cabinet persist despite denials from apparently authoritative quarters. A possible explanation might be found in the old saw suggesting that the wish is father to the thought, for there are many Englishmen who are acutely dissatisfied with the conduct of Britain's foreign policies, while recognising Sir John Simon's great personal qualities. The great importance of the matter cannot be exaggerated to-day when the work that commands the first attention of the government is, in the international sphere. Intensely believing in democracy, Britain must help uphold the democratic ideal. Believing with equal intensity in peace, it must aid disarmament. Believing in the necessity of world trade, it must endeavour to make headway against economic nationalism. Here are a few only of those objects, transcending everything else in public importance, which make ordinary party issues seem small in comparison; and the desire for a National Government is due to the passionate desire that the nation's case should be strongly stated and upheld in the world.

FOREIGN POLICY

That does not mean that the country is satisfied with the steps already taken. It is not. There is a definite feeling especially on the political Left that Britain ought to adopt a more positive policy where the great interlocking questions of armaments and security are concerned. There is also still very strong feeling that the conduct of foreign affairs could be made more likely to be effective in the hands of an individual who places less emphasis on legal forms, always provided, the National Government basis is preserved. No-one is exactly complimentary regarding the present government's achievements. But it is felt that a party government would have fared much worse. Not that criticism and opposition have disappeared. But they are taking a new form, and they do not generally run upon the old party lines. There has been much talk about a "centre party." But there is no need to form one. There already is one. It consists of that large group of persons—the Left Wing of the Conservatives, the Right Wing of the Liberals, and a sprinkling of Labour—who constitute the backbone of the Government's supporters.

THE NEW GERMAN LABOUR ACT

By Dr. KROHN, of the Ministry of Labour

THE social-political importance of the new German "Act to regulate Labour" is immense; and it is not too much to say that it inaugurates a new era in Germany's social policy. Until now, conditions of labour were regulated by legislation based on the acknowledgment of the principle of class war; but the new law entirely eliminates this principle.

This does not mean that the divergence of the interests of employers on the one hand and employees on the other is ignored. The authors of the new Act recognise that such divergences, where they exist, must be reconciled. Instead, however, of resorting to the methods of class war in order to achieve this purpose, an entirely novel structure has been built up, which does full justice to the economic interests of both sides and—beyond that—to the national interests in general.

Under the legislation now superseded, the federations of employers and employees were entrusted with the exercise of the social-political rights and duties here concerned. This system had led to an all-round lack of elasticity in connection with the fixing of salaries and wages, and had thus become unsuitable for the needs of the body economic, more especially in times of industrial unrest. The result was that the difficulties, in many instances, became insuperable, that private responsibility was shunned, and that the final decisions had to be made by the State. The situation was aggravated by the linking-up of the economic struggle with the political one; and there was a real danger of the complete breakdown of all constitutional forms.

In the course of the national revolution the existing trades unions were dissolved. The law passed on May 19th, 1933, governing the appointment of Trustees of Labour, adjusted the legal position to the actual facts, and provided a provisional method for the conclusion of employment contracts.

The functions hitherto exercised by the economic federations were transferred to the Trustees of Labour pending the definite introduction of a new social-economic constitution. Formally, the federations continued to be the parties concluding wages agreements; and the terms of the latter were only applicable to the members of the federations concerned, except in cases in which their universal application was made compulsory. The new Act does away with this intermediary settlement and creates an entirely new social-economic structure.

NEW STRUCTURE

The nucleus of the new constitution is the individual undertaking. All internal affairs, more particularly the conditions of work, are regulated by the undertaking itself. The owner occupies the position of a work's leader; and he decides in all questions affecting the employees. An advisory body composed of elected members of the staff and presided over by himself, called the Confidential Council, assists him in all social-political matters. The Council represents the joint interests of the undertaking as a whole.

Members of the Confidential Council are chosen from a list of suitable candidates drawn up by the works, leader in co-operation with the secretary of the National Socialist cell organisation. The election is effected by secret ballot.

The Very Idea!

SPRING DRAWS ON MADAM!

By Edward Kelly, Feverish.

NOW is the time when all young men turn their thoughts to better things.

Birds twittering in the trees. Maybe it was because an official of the Forestry Department walked underneath one of these trees that they're cutting 'em down now in Nathan Road.

But all this is besides the point. Dammit, Spring is here! Spring! When young men's fancies turn to love. Even the school kids are getting rootie about it.

Georgie Porgie
Pumpkin pie;
Kissed the girls
And made 'em cry.

Love is a wonderful thing. See how it's lasted through the ages. Thousands of years ago, before people could speak, they used to love.

They kissed each other tenderly, just as you and we do. Their bosoms heaved, there was the same old ecstasy in their embraces and.... We could go on like this for pages and pages, but we, too, are only flesh and blood, and we've got to keep our mind on our work.

Love is perpetual emotion, and according to the literature in our dentist's waiting room, there will be an even bigger boom in marriages in 1925 than there were in 1924.

Speaking of marriages, reminds us of a girl we know who got married and gave her husband the heir.

Fortunately, we've managed to steer clear of marriage. We are rather cynical about marriage, in fact.

We agree with the chappie who said that when a dog leads a man, he's blind, but when a man leads a dog, he's married.

Anyway, our love is alkaline. It wouldn't stand the test.

Which is all we have to say about Spring.

Good night, girls. If you talk in your sleep, don't mention our name!

THE NEXT WAR

With Japan and Russia snarling at each other and all sorts of ominous rumblings going on in Europe and various prominent people discussing what the next war will be like, inquiries have been made of The Telegraph as to when the next war will take place.

The inquiries have been referred to Edward Kelly who, having just made the acquaintance of the science of numbers, promptly supplies the following answer:

FEWER BRITISH UNEMPLOYED

LATEST FIGURES SATISFACTORY

London, March 5. It is estimated that on February 19, there were approximately 9,941,000 insured persons aged from 10 to 64 in employment in Great Britain. This was 67,000 more than a month before and 625,600 more than a year before. Industries showing the greatest improvement during the past month were building, tailoring, boot and shoe manufacture, and pottery manufacture. There was also some improvement in the iron and steel, engineering, and motor vehicle industries, and in the shipping service. At February 19, the numbers of unemployed persons on the registers of the Employment Exchanges in Great Britain were 1,881,532 wholly unemployed, 340,897 temporarily stopped, and 95,480, normally in casual employment. The total was 71,169 less than the number on the registers on January 22 and 538,729 less than the year before. The total on February 19, 1934, comprised 1,883,782 men, 68,368 boys, 328,146 women and 47,613 girls.—British Wireless.

NEWFOUNDLAND FINANCES

CONVERSION OFFER RESPONSE

London, March 5. Supplementary estimates presented to the House of Commons on behalf of the Dominions Office, and approved, included £234,000 in connection with the recent constitutional changes in Newfoundland.

The Under-Secretary, Mr. Malcolm Macdonald, said the greater part of the money was required to meet the deficit in the current financial year, including provision for the payment of interest on the Newfoundland Public Debt.

The response to the Newfoundland debt conversion offer had been extremely satisfactory, and the saving during the six months had been about £150,000. In addition to the £234,000, a further £40,000 was being asked for in connexion with certain work of reconstruction and rehabilitation in Newfoundland.—British Wireless.

INDIA QUAKE RECONSTRUCTION

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN ARRANGED

London, March 5. Sir Samuel Hoare, replying in the Commons to a question regarding reconstructive works in progress in relation to the recent earthquake in India, said a comprehensive plan had been worked out by the Government of India and the Government of Bihar, in consultation, covering the reconstruction of Government buildings, financial assistance to the local authorities, and relief to private sufferers.

A special Commissioner has been appointed by the Bihar Government and with the financial assistance given from central revenues, he had no doubt the work of reconstruction would be vigorously taken up.—British Wireless.

BRITISH FUNDS BUOYANT

NEW HIGH LEVEL OF WAR LOAN

London, Mar. 5. British funds were again active on the London Stock Exchange, where buoyant condition prevailed in almost sections.

Further substantial gains were recorded in British Government stocks, under the lead of consols 2½ per cent. at 82½, which is the highest point reached for many years. War Loan 3½ per cent. improved to a new high level of 103.15/16.—British Wireless.

THE DISARMAMENT PROBLEM

SIR JOHN SIMON SILENT

London, March 5. Questioned in the Commons on the present position of the disarmament problem, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, said Mr. Anthony Eden's visits to Paris, Berlin, and Rome were of importance, but the Government were not yet in full possession of the views of all the Powers concerned, and he would prefer not to make any statement on the subject until the information was complete.—British Wireless.

THE FAILURE OF DEMOCRACY

DEMOCRACY FAILS.

Referring to the assertions that they had now committed themselves to Communism, Collectivism or had adopted Fascism and a Dictatorship, Mr. Roosevelt said the machinery of the democracy of the United States had failed to function for a number of years through inertia—partly the inertia of leaders, and partly that of the people themselves.

The Recovery Act was drawn up for the greatest good of the greatest number and they had sought a balance in the economic system, in order that their internal markets should be kept rich and large, and also that trade with other nations should increase on both sides of the ledger. He denounced destructive criticism, but welcomed constructive suggestions.

President Roosevelt expressed satisfaction that most of the criticism was not levelled at the Recovery Act itself, but against the details and method of the Act.

N.R.A. OBJECTIVE.

The whole objective of the N.R.A. was to raise the public purchasing power. No-one was opposed to sensible and reasonable profits, but a great segment of the people was in actual distress and when it came to a question of humanity, they must be considered first, he said. There was no room for hesitation.

"With millions still unemployed, the purchasing power of the people remains greatly curtailed and can only be increased and sustained by striving for the lowest schedule of prices on which higher wages and increased employment can be maintained," he went on.

The Government could not for ever continue to absorb all the burden of unemployment. The urgent need was to get more people working.

GOVT. DETERMINED.

"With few exceptions, industry will give its whole-hearted compliance with our endeavour, but in rare cases where industrial self-government fails, the Government must and will move firmly and promptly in order to prevent failure," declared the President.

"The Code authorities are the keepers of their industrial brothers," he added; "and they must establish every safeguard against erasing the small operator from the scene. The Codes should check reverse competitive methods whereby 'the little fellow' is being squeezed out."—Reuter.

KIPLING RECITAL

SIR HY. POLLOCK TO SPEAK

To-morrow at 8.30 p.m., a recital of Rudyard Kipling's poems will be given in the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home by the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock K.C. The Chairman will be Commodore Frank Elliot, O.B.E., R.N.

This recital should be of considerable interest to the general public as well as to Service men and it is therefore hoped that there will be a large attendance. To all those who are fond of poetry in this Modern Age, Rudyard Kipling stands out in a class of his own as the Poet of the British Empire, and it will come as a welcome refresher to those of us who live in this out-post of that Empire to be once again introduced to the works of a man who has done so much to remind us of the service and sacrifice upon which the Empire has been built.—Contributed.

SOUTH WALES BORDERERS

G.O.C.'S ANNUAL INSPECTION

The annual inspection of the 1st Bn. South Wales Borderers by H.E. the G.O.C., Major General O.C. Borrett, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., took place on Murray Parade ground this morning.

There were over 600 men drawn up for review in marching order under Col. G. T. Balkes, D.S.O. The G.O.C. was accompanied on his inspection by Brigadier G. B. Rowan Hamilton, D.S.O., M.C., Col. F.P. Nosworthy, M.C., and Lieut. F. R. L. Mears, A.D.C.

Officers in charge of companies were Capt. A. R. Smethers ("A" Coy), Capt. P. Gottwaltz, M.C. ("B" Coy.), Capt. V. J. F. Popham ("D" Coy.), Lieut. P. D. Yates ("H. Q." Wink).

is the outcome of their mutual interests." These two provisions—which might be thought to be superfluous in a piece of legislation—are nevertheless the foundation of the new Act. Anyone contravening them will be dealt with by special Tribunals of Social Honour—Institutions which are probably a complete innovation in Labour legislation anywhere.

SUPREME TRIBUNAL.

One such Tribunal is established in each district for which a Trustee of Labour is appointed. It is presided over by a professional judge. The Act strictly defines the circumstances which entitle those affected to put the matter before the Tribunal. As regards the employer, these circumstances are chiefly those that arise out of his privileged position, or in connection with the exploitation of persons employed by him, or with a depreciation of their personal honour; and as regards the employees, the principal matters concerned are: offences against the peaceful working of the undertaking; and the abuse of confidential information. Appeals against the judgments rendered by a Tribunal may be made to the Supreme Tribunal of Social Honour. The penalties that may be imposed are: warnings; reprimands; fines not exceeding 10,000 reichsmarks; disqualification from the position of acting as works' leader or as a member of the Confidential Council; and transfer to a different place of work.

The former rule providing that employees under notice of dismissal could only lodge an appeal with the Labour Courts if the representative body of employers and employees regarded such appeal as justified is abolished. In future, it will be possible for them to ask without such an intermediary for the cancellation of the notice of dismissal provided that it involves unnecessary hardships and is made imperative by the conditions of employment;

The undertakings administered and operated by the National Government, the federal States, the National Railroad Corporation, the municipalities and other public bodies are exempt from the provisions of the Act relative to the terms of employment. A separate Act concerning them will be introduced later on.

The foregoing brief summary gives some indication of the enormous importance of the new legislation, which supersedes not less than eleven previous Acts, including such fundamental ones as those relative to works' councils, wages agreements, compulsory arbitration and the shutting-down of works, all of which have been repealed.

MAY PROMulgATION.

The new Act will come into force on May 1st, 1934, the Day of National Labour, except that the transitional provisions become immediately effective. Thus a guarantee is given against a state of things subsequent to May 1st, 1934, that would be characterised by a general absence of wages and employment agreements. Moreover, the National Minister of Labour and the various Trustees of Labour will be able to use the interval for the purpose of adjusting existing agreements to the new rules, so that no disturbance of the industrial peace need be anticipated.

The Nazis believe that the new Act, by increasing the freedom of employers and by placing additional responsibilities upon their shoulders, will make them also increasingly conscious of their powers of initiative. We are convinced that they will wisely utilise the possibilities provided by the Act and that they will refrain from interpreting it arbitrarily and in a spirit not intended by its authors. But we also expect that it will adequately protect the interests of the employees, that will make them realise the important part played by them in the works community and that it will turn them into loyal collaborators with their employers for the promotion of the country's economic welfare.

AUSTRALIAN DAVIS CUP TEAM WITHOUT A MANAGER

BELOW PAR TENNIS AT H.K.C.C.

CAPT. CANNON IN DREARY GAME

HACHIUMA'S SAD LAPSES

RUMJAHNS WIN

(By "Veritas").

A week off the tennis courts seemed to have its effect on all of the players who appeared in yesterday's open championship matches, and the standard of play fell considerably below par.

Captain P. S. Cannon chopped and sliced his way into the third round of the singles, at the expense of Ng Kam-chuen, who rather foolishly tried to play the winner at his own game. Captain Cannon had better control over his shots, although his win was not very convincing.

It is seldom one sees Hachiuma so completely lose control over his strokes as he did when parting J. W. Leonard against Fincher and Goldman.

The result was a cake-walk for last year's finalists. Hachiuma was continually making mistakes both from the baseline and net, and Leonard had no chance of covering them up.

The Rumjahn cousins waited for Wright and Gray to make the errors and to collect the points for a 6-1, 6-1 entry into the third round. It was poor calibre tennis.

TO-DAY'S GAMES.

There is the promise of one or two attractive games this afternoon. Duff and Sullivan make their second appearances in the doubles, opposed to Tam Yoc-fong and Ng Kam-chuen. This should offer a better opportunity of gauging the strength of the British pair's challenge for the title. Duff may be called upon to do some extra work.

Ricketts, putting in some quiet practice yesterday, will at last play off his third round tie with Iu Tak-chouk, and I expect to see him win in straight sets. He is among the best stylists in local tennis and has a very concrete all round game.

Cannon and Owen-Hughes should win comfortably against Pile and Millard.

The programme is:

OPEN SINGLES.

G. R. M. Ricketts v Iu Tak-chouk

OPEN DOUBLES.

Capt. Cannon and H. Owen-Hughes v C. E. Millard and C. Pile

Tam Yoc-fong and Ng Kam-chuen v W. A. H. Duff and A. L. Sullivan.

LOTT AND THE DAVIS CUP

STRONG CLAIMS THIS YEAR

"STORMY PETREL" OF TENNIS

New York. George Martin Lott, Jr., in some respects the most logical successor to the role of stormy petrel in American amateur tennis, seems to have begun the new year with a characteristic rush, calculated to emphasize (a) his right to a place higher than tenth on the U.S. ranking list, and (b) his availability for singles as well as doubles responsibility in the forthcoming Davis Cup campaign.

No one questions Lott's doubles ability. In fact he probably is the best doubles player in the world, on the basis of his 1933 performances with assorted partners, including Johnny Van Ryn, of the Davis Cup matches and Lester Stoefen, the tall Californian, in the national championships.

As a soloist on the courts, however, his record is erratic. He has had his weeks of brilliance, as when he reached the finale of the national tournament at Forest Hills against Ellsworth Vines in 1931. At other times he has been rather rudely handled by such youngsters as Frankie Parker.

Lott is temperamental but he has the shots and he possesses a rare combative spirit. It is entirely within his powers, should his January performances in Florida and Canada serve as a criterion, to justify his selection for the dual role of a Tilden in this year's Davis Cup quest.

The Chicagoan has the benefit of considerably more international experience than any other singles prospect, including Frank Shields, Sidney Wood and Lester Stoefen.

On his good days he is likely to take any one of these three youngsters over the hurdles. And he is a campaigner of the old school. Lott undoubtedly toyed with the

ASSAULT ON REFEREE

SHANGHAI CASE SETTLED

LAW SUIT NOW WITHDRAWN

Through the efforts of Dr. C. T. Wang, veteran diplomat and chairman of the board of directors of the China National Amateur Athletic Federation, the alleged assault case of the referee, Mr. W. T. Sung, by a student of the Chiaotung University has been amicably settled.

Mr. Sung, a member of the Chinese Referees' Association and the Referees' Society of Shanghai, was mobbed on December 16, 1933, immediately after the championship match of the Kiangnan Inter-collegiate Football Tournament between the Chiaotung University and the Chiaotung University on the former's ground in Siccawei Road. Chiaotung won the match by one goal to nil, the solitary point being scored through a penalty kick. The unruly section of the big crowd accused the referee of unjustly awarding the penalty. At the expiration of time some 20 undesirables attacked the official, causing bodily injuries.

It is understood that the student who participated in the attack, was obliged to pay all the medical expenses amounting to $200 and legal charges of $500. The Chinese Referees' Association received a letter of apology from the Chiaotung authorities for not affording adequate protection to its member.

JAPANESE SECOND IN SKI RELAY

Lose By Close Margin To German Team

Tokyo, Feb. 27. By a close margin of minute and 11 seconds, the Japanese ski team missed the first place in the relay game held yesterday in Bavaria in the third day of the German Students' Ski Championship Meeting being held at Garmisch, coming in second to the German team.

The German team covered the 30 kilometres course in 2 hours, 10 minutes and 23 seconds, the Japanese team in 2 hours, 11 minutes and 34 seconds, and the Swiss team in 2 hours, 23 minutes and 16 seconds.

The Japanese student skiers left Garmisch yesterday for Munich, whence they will proceed to Maribor via Paris.

They will embark in the N.Y.K.

MIDGET RACING CAR AROUSES INTEREST

150 Miles An Hour Made In Trial Performance

London. A new German racing car, which is to compete in the big international racing events in Europe, has just been produced in Berlin.

It is known as the "P-Avus" car, after its designer, Porsche, and when taken out on a trial run with Hans Stuck driving, the car did about 150 miles per hour, a speed which is said will easily be increased later.

The car presents a curious appearance. Four metres long and scarcely a metre high, it will be one of the smallest cars on the track.

Its 16-cylinder engine is installed at the rear of the car with the radiator in front.

Indians Take 1st Inns. Lead

MERCHANT'S FINE BATTING

Bombay, Mar. 5.

Thanks to a painstaking knock by Merchant, who scored 89 not out, the Indian XI were able to pass the M.C.C., first innings total when the match on behalf of the earthquake victims was continued to-day.

In reply to the Englishmen's 224, the Indians hit up 238, adding 173 for the last eight wickets. Nichol was the only bowler to meet with any success, and his four wickets cost 68 runs.

Batting a second time, the M.C.C. scored 132 for four wickets before close of play.—Reuters.

Idea of turning pro after last season. The future probably looks a trifle uncertain for him in amateur tennis but he couldn't get together with his old "pal," Big Bill Tilden, and he likely won't. Meanwhile, it appears that with Vines in the pro ranks and Wilmer Allison passing out of the picture a new opportunity in 1934 has been heard by Master Lott.

LOTT'S DETERMINATION. "This year I am going to keep it up," remarked Lott, by way of confirmation, after he won the Miami Biltmore tournament. "I don't know, myself, why I lose interest in singles during the summer season but I don't think it will happen again. Anyway, I've got more incentive this year and it will be fun to see what happens."

Most of the experts now think that's all it will be this year—fun for our lads and victory for either the British or Australians in the Davis Cup play. That's why Lott may be projected into a very good spot. There will be no over-confidence whatever in the American ranks and it is just possible, barely possible, that Lott & Company might strike a few good days at the right time.—United Press.

RADIO BEAT THE VARSITY

DEPLETED TEAMS

The Radio Sports Club defeated the University by three goals to one in a friendly hockey match at Caroline Hill ground yesterday afternoon. The Radio fielded only ten men, while the University had the services of only nine players, and were without a goal-keeper.

Kalwant Singh gave the Radio the lead, Gurbachan Singh, the Colony centre-forward, adding a second goal before the interval as the result of a smart solo effort. Early in the second half, Goon Kok-lem found the net for the Varsity, but towards the end, Avtar Singh scored from a good pass from G. Singh.

For the losers, S. Reed and R. G. Reed played well in the defence.

The Radio were to have played against the South Wales Borderers, who failed to turn out, while the University were similarly disappointed by the Royal Engineers at Sookunpoo. The Radio and the University compromised by playing the friendly game.

TRIANGULAR TOURNEY.

urization of Hollywood film life which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre. Directed by Victor Fleming, veteran master of camera beauty, "Bombshell" presents one of the most unusual and hilariously humorous pictures that have come out of Hollywood. Jean Harlow as Linda is a sensational and glamorous film star who has been made famous by the genius of her press agent, Lee Tracy. It is this publicity that plunges Linda into trouble, all of the woes that beset her throughout the action—or the screen-story—her headline love affairs, her rows with the studio executives, her worries with her trouble-making family and the additional woes heaped upon her by movie-crazed fanatics. The supporting cast is uniformly excellent, featuring such competent players as Frank Morgan, Franchot Tone, Pat O'Brien, Una Merkel, Ted Healy, Ivan Lebedeff, Isobell Jewell, Louise Beavers, Leonard Carey, Mary Forbes, C. Aubrey Smith and June Brewster. "Song of Songs"

Marlene Dietrich sings "Johnny," the torch song which was a sensation in Germany when she introduced it several years ago, in her new Paramount picture, "The Song of Songs." This picture is showing at the King's Theatre to-day. The American version of the lyrics was written by Lee Robin composer of "Please," "One Hour With You" and "I'll Take an Option on You." "The Song of Songs," adapted from Hermann Sudermann's literary masterpiece of a young woman who suffers because of her longing for love, was directed by Robert Mamoulian. The supporting cast for Miss Dietrich includes Brian Aherne, Lionel Atwill, Alison Skipworth, Hardie Albright and Helen Freeman.

"No Man of Her Own"

The kitchen sink is sometimes mightier than the doorway as an aid to swains who pop that important question to "the only girl in the world"—at least if it happens in the movies!

RACE DAY INCIDENT

MERCHANT DISCHARGED
IN ASSAULT CASE

An alleged assault on a Chinese constable Tsol Fun, by a merchant, Woo Hing-cheung, at Wong Nai-chung Road on February 24, was dismissed when defendant was charged before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

The counter charge of assault by the constable was also dismissed.

Doctor's Evidence.

Dr. D. J. Valentine, Medical Officer in charge of the Government Civil Hospital, stated that the Sergeant was a patient for three days. He had an incised wound about one inch over the outer part of the left eyebrow. It might have been caused by any blow.

Replying further, Dr. Valentine said the cut might have been caused by the finger nail, probably of the right hand, or a blow in the eye. There was not very much bruising. Shantung Police Constable D 107, in evidence, said the Sergeant was dispersing the crowd by telling them to move on. Witness could not swear that the Sergeant did not push anyone. He saw the defendant strike the Sergeant. Witness arrested the defendant after he had tried to run a few paces.

"Being assaulted, the Sergeant was in a confused condition, and I ran up and caught the defendant," said the witness. "I picked up the truncheon from the ground."

Cross-examined by Mr. Sin, witness said the Sergeant drew his truncheon after being struck. Defendant ran for about six paces.

Defendant's Evidence.

Defendant said that he was the proprietor of the Chung Hing Spraying Company, No. 1, Sharp Street, East. He went with a friend to the Koon Ma Cafe and there met two other friends, husband and wife. When he saw the truncheon dismissed the charges.

ATTACK OF MEASLES.

ROOSEVELT'S GRAND-DAUGHTER AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Mar. 6.—Sister Dall, six-year-old granddaughter of President Roosevelt, has been confined to the White House, suffering from measles. She is reported to be rapidly recovering. There is no danger of the White House being placed under quarantine.—United Press.

race begin they went out to the parquet wall. The complainant came up and pushed his friend and his wife and himself, and abused them in filthy language. He told complainant that as a police officer he had no right to push them. The complainant then struck him, but he warded off the blow. The complainant struck him second time, and he warded off the blow again. He then noticed the complainant was bleeding from his left eyebrow. The complainant became angry, drew his truncheon and tried to hit him again. He warded off the blow, and in so doing knocked the truncheon from the complainant's hand. The complainant picked it up, and attempted to strike again, when an Indian sergeant came up and seized him and asked him not to strike. The cut on complainant's eyebrow, he believed, was caused by his (defendant's) finger nail.

Replying to Mr. Hamilton, witness said that the complainant pushed them saying, "You monkeys and nuns go away."

After Chan Man-yuen, a witness for the defense, had given corroborative evidence, Sergeant Major Banta Singh said he arrived on the scene and saw the complainant holding defendant by the collar. The truncheon was on the ground.

Mr. Hamilton dismissed the charges.

NEW ENTENTE

SLAV COUNTRIES IN STATE OF ALARM

London, March 6.—The coming visit to Rome of Chancellor Dollfuss and Premier Goebbels, leaders of Austria and Hungary, is welcomed by newspapers in the Italian capital, which anticipate a sort of Italo-Austro-Hungarian "triple entente." They applaud Premier Mussolini for his efforts which are expected to lay the foundations for lasting peace in the Balkans.

The contrary view is taken in Czechoslovakia, however, and in Jugoslavia, also. There, there is the greatest apprehension and it is said that they would rather see the Nazis triumph in Austria, than that Italy should succeed.

Germany also is hostile to the creation of the Italo-Austro-Hungarian bloc, considering it is designed to checkmate her schemes in Austria and Central Europe.

Meanwhile, Chancellor Dollfuss ardently pursues his idea of a corporative Christian state. To-day is the anniversary of the dismissal of Parliament and Dollfuss, speaking before 25,000 peasants, announced that the new constitution would be made known this week.

He congratulated the workers of the country, who, he said, were 90 per cent. loyal in the recent upheaval.

Austria, he went on, was ready for preferential tariffs with Hungary, but does not want a customs union.

"We have created the fundamentals of a happier Austria, and she can stand on her own feet," the Chancellor said.

The Nazis at the moment gleefully anticipate a large accession of recruits, but many workers dread Nazi persecution as much as they do the Heimwehr machine.—Our Own Correspondent.

REVIVAL OF WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

EARTHQUAKE IN NEW ZEALAND.

MUCH ALARM BUT LITTLE DAMAGE.

Wellington, Mar. 6. Many centres in the North Island experienced an earthquake shock at 11.46 last night.

The occurrence caused considerable alarm over a wide area, but so far very little damage has been reported.—Reuter.

PRINCESS WINS ACTION

£25,000 DAMAGES IN FILM LIBEL SUIT

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News Ordinance, 1891. Received March 6, 7.10 a.m.)

London, Mar. 5.

Damages amounting to no less a sum than £25,000 were to-day awarded to Princess Irina Youssoupoff against the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation at the conclusion of the five-day trial in the King's Bench Division.

The Princess brought a libel action against the Corporation, alleging that in the film, "Rasputin, the Mad Monk," the character Natasha, who is Rasputin's mistress in the film, refers to her.

Objection was taken on the ground that the Princess was labelled inasmuch as she was depicted as having been seduced and ravished by Rasputin.—United Press.

SHAKESPEARE QUOTED.

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News Ordinance, 1891. Received March 6, 7.10 a.m.)

London, Mar. 5. In the Rasputin film libel suit, the jury took over two hours to consider their verdict.

Mr. Justice Ayres gave a brilliant summing-up, in the course of which he quoted a verse from Shakespeare's "Rape of Lucrece," beginning "But she has lost a dearer thing than life."

A VILE LIBEL.

His Lordship said it was difficult to imagine a worse libel upon a happily-married woman, a woman upon whose virtue nobody dared cast a slur, than to say she was seduced or ravished by such a villain as Rasputin.

That, said Mr. Justice Ayres, was the vilest libel imaginable.—Reuter's Special Service.

STOP PRESS

Nanking, Mar. 6. Sir Alexander Cadogan, the new British Minister to China, presented his credentials to Mr. Lin Sen, Chairman of the Government, this morning.—Reuter.

Nanking, Mar. 6. It is understood that Mr. T.V. Soong, who arrived here with Dr. H.H. Kung this morning, is convening a meeting of the standing Committee of the National Economic Council this evening, for the purpose of discussing the silver question as well as reconstruction measures.—Reuter.

AMERICA INTERESTED IN IDEA

ENVOY TO TOUR EUROPE

DECISION HANGS ON REPORT

New York, Mar. 6. The possibility of the United States endeavouring to take a leading part in efforts to reconvene the World Economic Conference, which met in London last summer without reaching definite results, is being discussed here.

Mr. Richard Washburn Child, who was advisor to Mr. Cordell Hull, U.S. Secretary of State, at the Conference, is leaving for London on the 14th instant on a three months' economic survey of Europe.

On the basis of the report which he will submit on his return, Mr. Hull may decide on the advisability of the United States participating in a move for reconvening the Conference.

FRANK DISCUSSIONS.

It is stated that Mr. Child will not be empowered to make any commitments on behalf of the United States in regard to stabilization of currency, war debts, or any other outstanding questions, but he will not be restricted with regard to the questions he may discuss with European statesmen.

Mr. Child, when questioned regarding his tour, said he understood that President Roosevelt wanted to know what "the other fellows" are doing to aid the economic rehabilitation of the world.—Reuter.

NEW STAVISKY SENSATION

Official Attempts Suicide

PRINCE MURDER DISCLOSURES

Paris, Mar. 5. Investigations are still proceeding with a view to determining whether M. Prince, the Chief of the Public Prosecutions Department, who was prominently connected with the Stavisky case, was murdered or committed suicide.

An analysis of the viscera of M. Prince has revealed the presence of poisons such as cocaine and chloroform.

Meanwhile, M. Hurlaux, Assistant Public Prosecutor of the Court of Appeal, has been dismissed. He was one of the magistrates who dealt with the Stavisky swindling case, the hearing of which was postponed.

Inspector Bony, who was suspended and rehabilitated three days ago, has now been placed in full charge of the enquiry into M. Prince's death.

NEW SENSATION.

A further sensation was provided when M. Hurlaux attempted to commit suicide by poisoning in the Public Prosecutor's office.

He was, however, prevented from ending his life and has been taken to a nursing home.—Reuter.

BIG WALL STREET BANKRUPTCY

PETITION FILED BY MR. L. LIVERMORE

New York, Mar. 6. A voluntary petition of bankruptcy has been filed on behalf of Mr. Jesse L. Livermore, the veteran stockmarket operator, who was recently reported as having mysteriously disappeared.

His liabilities are given at $52,259,212 and assets at $318,000.—Reuter.

POLITICAL DEBATE IN SENATE

DEMOCRAT LEADER GIVES WARNING

DRAWING ON CREDIT DANGER

Washington, Mar. 6. In the course of a tumultuous political debate in the Senate yesterday over Administration policies, Senator Feas asserted that the policies must be judged by results and not by ballyhoo.

He said that employment was lagging and he predicted a Federal deficit of 40 billion dollars next year.

The Democrat leader, Senator Robinson, together with Senators Byrd, McKellar and Harrison warmly defended President Roosevelt's efforts, and commended the proposed tariff powers.

Discussing the monetary situation, Senator Robinson said there was still a necessity in drawing on national credit until business was revitalised and earnings increased.

He added:—"There is a real danger that this may go to a point of permanently impairing national credit through uncontrolled inflation—an expedient which has rarely, if ever, been confirmed as safe."—Reuter.

NEW DYESTUFFS LEGISLATION

COMMONS AGREES TO BILL

London, Mar. 6. The House of Commons, by 193 votes to 38, passed the third reading of the Dyestuffs Import Regulation Bill, under which the prohibition of dyestuffs imports can be made complete, partial, or abolished.

Mr. Burgin explained that the Board of Trade was empowered to deal with complaints from consumers, and the Board, if it thought necessary, owing to exorbitant prices or other reasons, could reduce the prohibition and let in dyestuffs from Japan or the United States.—Reuter.

NEW SENSATION.

A further sensation was provided when M. Hurlaux attempted to commit suicide by poisoning in the Public Prosecutor's office.

He was, however, prevented from ending his life and has been taken to a nursing home.—Reuter.

NANKING MILITARY MISSION

Received in Moscow by Soviet Officials

Riga, March 6. The Nanking Military mission arrived in Moscow on March 3 and called on M. Tukhachevsky, the Deputy Chairman of Defence, and M. Yegoroff, the Chief of Staff.

The mission has already visited Italy, and Turkey, and will be proceeding to Poland.—Reuter.

HIGHER WAGES AND LESS WORK.

DEFINITE MOVE MADE IN UNITED STATES.

Washington, Mar. 6. General Johnson has followed up President Roosevelt's appeal to industrialists by tentatively proposing to the industrial members of the N.R.A. Conference that the Code authorities reduce hours of work by 10 per cent.

He also suggests that there should simultaneously be a 10 per cent. increase in wages.—Reuter.

SAVED FROM AN ICY GRAVE

DARING RESCUE BY AIRMEN

OF CHELIUSKIN VICTIMS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News Ordinance, 1891. Received March 6, 7.10 a.m.)

Moscow, Mar. 6.

Ten women and two children have been rescued from an icy grave by two Russian fliers, who made a successful flight to the ice-floes camp of the Cheliuskin passengers.

According to a radio report from Cape Wellen, two Soviet fliers, Lipidevsky and Petrov, set off from Cape Wellen in a ten-passenger aeroplane and flew to the marooned passengers of the sunken ice-breaker Cheliuskin, and effected the rescue of ten women and two children.

They landed safely at Cape Wellen despite being faced with the difficulties of landing on frost-bound ground in 40 degrees of frost.

TERRIFYING PLIGHT.

The victims of the sunken ice-breaker have been in a terrifying plight since February 13. The Cheliuskin sank 150 miles from Cape Severny, but with the exception of two members of the crew, the 72 people on board were saved from drowning.

They encamped on drifting ice-floes awaiting the arrival of rescue parties.

Fears that the passengers might die from exposure pastured efforts to send out rescuers and boats were sent rushing from Cape Severny and Cape Wellen.

The Cheliuskin, a Soviet ice-breaker, was cracked like a nut-shell by the terrific force of ice-packs, and sank within a short time.—United Press.

SURREY'S NEW CAPTAIN

E.R.T. HOLMES APPOINTED

SUCCESSOR TO JARDINE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News Ordinance, 1891. Received March 6, 7.10 a.m.)

London, March 6.

E. R. T. Holmes, formerly Oxford University cricketer, has been offered and has accepted the captaincy of the Surrey County Cricket team for the 1934 season.

He succeeds J. R. Jardine, famous Test match skipper, who finds that he will be unable to play regularly this year.

In a letter to the President of the Surrey County Cricket Club, Jardine suggests that as he will not be in the position to turn out regularly during the summer, his successor should be appointed.

E.R.T. Holmes learnt his cricket at Malvern from where he went to Oxford with an enviable reputation as a class batsman. He fully justified all promise at the Varsity, gaining his blue in 1925, and captaining the team in 1927. Since then he has played quite a lot for Surrey.—Reuter Special.

C.E.R. DISPUTE PARLEY

JAPAN NOW MORE TRACTABLE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News Ordinance, 1891. Received March 6, 7.10 a.m.)

Tokyo, Mar. 6.

Japanese official circles forecast the early resumption of Soviet-Manchukuo negotiations for the sale of the C.E.R. interests by Soviet Russia.

The expectation follows a series of unofficial meetings here, the final one of which was held yesterday between Mr. Koki Hirota, Japanese Foreign Minister, and M. Yurennoff, Soviet Ambassador.

M. Yurennoff is alleged to have been fully satisfied with Mr. Hirota's assurance that the Japanese Government is prepared to contribute greater measure to the success of the coming negotiations than hitherto.—Central News.

Peking, March 6.

It is learned in diplomatic circles here that the attitude of the Soviet Government towards the proposed establishment of a Soviet-Manchukuo Commission for the settlement of border disputes will not be definitely disclosed until further developments in connection with the sale of C.E.R.

A formal reply to Manchukuo is, therefore, postponed.—Central News.

THE FAILURE OF DEMOCRACY

ROOSEVELT EXPOSES PAST WEAKNESS

MALDISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH

DECLARING THAT THE MACHINERY OF DEMOCRACY IN THE UNITED STATES HAD FAILED TO FUNCTION THROUGH INERTIA, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT YESTERDAY MADE AN ELOQUENT APPEAL TO INDUSTRY TO REDUCE WORKING HOURS STILL FURTHER AS A MEANS OF EFFECTING RE-EMPLOYMENT.

Mr. Roosevelt defended his recovery measures, and declared that never again could they permit social conditions allowing vast sections of the population to exist in a way which permitted maldistribution of wealth and power.

The President did not oppose reasonable profits, but when it came to a question of humanity, people in actual distress must first be considered.

CALL FOR REDUCED WORKING HOURS

Washington, Mar. 6.

A clarion call to industry to immediately further reduce working hours, as a means to spreading employment and re-employment of more people at living wages, was sounded by President Roosevelt when addressing an assembly of N.R.A. Code officials to-day.

"Only" by this means "can we continue on the road to recovery and restore the balance we seek," the President declared.

President Roosevelt stressed the point that people of the United States whose incomes were less than $2,000 per annum bought over two thirds of all the goods sold in the country. Therefore, he said, it was logical that if the total amount paid in wages to this group were steadily increased, merchants, employers and investors in the long run would get more income from an increased volume of sales.

"NEVER AGAIN."

A year ago, when collapse was imminent, they undertook, by lawful constitutional processes, to reorganise a disintegrating system

The willingness of all elements to enter into the spirit of "the New Deal" was more evident as the "Deal" continued, he went on.

BANK SYSTEM SOUND.

The President said he had just received a telegram from the President of the American Bankers' Association, expressing full confidence and a sincere desire to co-operate. The telegram stated "The banking structure of the United States is sound and liquid and the banks have never been in a stronger position to function effectively."

YOUR CHILDREN.

Youth vs. Experience

By Olive Roberts Barton

The time is past when Ma or Pa Smith have to call in son Benjamin from the hay field to read Aunt Sophie's last letter. And Aunt Sophie's letter itself to-day is spelled correctly, contains the right number of capitals and periods and is no relation whatsoever to that classic epistle of some fifty years ago.

Parents to-day are literate and educated, largely speaking. Except in a very few communities we find it so. Two reasons. Compulsory education laws that have for years escorted the young to the gates of high school and beyond, and greatly reduced immigration.

Therefore any patronage or condescension on the part of youth for pater or mater familiaris is unwarranted and ignorant anyway. It was unwarranted and ignorant anyway, even in the days when Pa or Ma Smith had to add their cross to the mortgage papers under Lawyer Brown's handwriting.

YOUTHFUL ARROGANCE.

Nothing makes me so furious, or fills me with such righteous disgust

as to hear some young smarty laugh at his parents because they don't know who Proust is, or when they prefer "Old Black Joe" to "Rhapsody in Something or Other."

When an over-blooded youth won't ride with his father because he drives only 35 miles an hour and calls him "old" and "nervous," latent spite kicks aside my patience and I picture a particularly desert isle, a leaky boat and a rough sea, with this boy in the boat. See then what he could do for himself in a world not already made for him!

Or the girl who teases her mother about her obtuseness in catching on to new wise cracks, styles and the latest word in compacta.

We have to allow for youth. It has ever been patronizing to maturity and age, but in the old days it had to learn two things—respect and patience—it seldom "patronized." It may even have feared, but with a good healthy fear. I think it is good to fear sometimes, because human nature is so constituted that fear begets honour, and honour is the father of respect and patience and a lot of other things needed to season the heart.

EXPERIENCE LACKING.

One thing that fathers the disrespect of those over forty is the youth movement in our economic world. Companies everywhere are employing boys and discarding me who know anything. Try to find middle-aged or near-middle-age woman a job. Beauty is supplanting brains.

We've turned muscular and sentimental. And it is silly. Even the brain of a young man or young woman, however packed with "logics" and "ometrics" and the fellah of Phi Beta Kappa keys, is muscular, over-emotional, and too full of blood. Risk is the middle name, and so-called Progress.

They are not seasoned, these young minds. They lack the greatest teacher of all, Experience.

Youth has its place, but not at the helm—either in politics, industry or the home. We need youth, its courage and its light heart, but what we can do without is its arrogance, patronage and leadership. And sponging.

However, as it is the home I particularly champion, I still contend that parents hold the aces. All they need is the courage to bid

Benefits of Soapless Shampoos

Using a soapless shampoo is one way of making sure that there will be no soapy deposits on your hair when you have finished washing it.

Soapless shampoos are marvelous for any head of hair but are especially recommended for girls with super-fine hair. Be sure and select one made by a reliable manufacturer and don't confuse soapless shampoos with dry shampoos.

Rinse your hair to loosen the excess dirt and dust. Then pour about three tablespoonfuls of the soapless shampoo oil right on the top of your head. Rub it around on your scalp and through your hair until each section is saturated.

Rinse with warm water a couple of times and then put on another dose of the soapless shampoo oil. Massage it into the scalp with your finger tips. In other words, use it the same as you would use a liquid soap shampoo.

Rinse your hair first with quite hot water, then with water slightly cooler. Keep on changing the water, making it a little cooler each time until the final rinse is almost cold.

Forgotten Sweetheart by MARY RAYMOND

CHAPTER XXV

Pat's illness climaxed two weeks of hunting for a job without encouragement. As the days passed, the loneliness had begun to oppress her, and her appetite failed. Often she had been too tired to prepare food, and her evening meal would be only a can of soup.

At the end of each day she was just a little more discouraged than before. "Return the night of next month. Things might open up by then." Other executives were less encouraging. Summer, they said, was a poor time to be job hunting. Everything was slack. And on and on.

"I'll get a job if there's one to be had in New York!" Pat had thought. Her fighting spirit was aroused. She had heard of girls, whipped into accepting defeat, but they had not the same incentive she had.

She couldn't go back to Memphis where everybody stared and whispered "that's the girl who was with Jerry Forrester when he was killed. They'd been at a road house."

Pat's curved lips set in a straight line at the thought, and she drove herself a little harder. She was thinner and she had developed a cold. She had intended to stop at the drug store on the corner and get something for it, but always she seemed too tired, or too engrossed in her thoughts when she passed.

One morning she awakened to the sound of rain. That meant losing another day. It might mean a job lost. And it meant, too, a whole day to be spent alone.

A day alone would be intolerable. What was a little rain? Pat told herself she could walk close to the side of stores on her way to the subway. And on the way home she would buy a bottle of cough medicine. There had been a dull ache in her chest for two days now.

She almost gave up the idea of going out while she was eating her breakfast. She felt chilled and tired. Her head was aching dreadfully. If there were no advertisements that looked encouraging, maybe she would stay at home after all.

She ran downstairs to the apartment occupied by Mrs. Baker, her landlady, who saved the morning newspaper for her. Mrs. Baker had seemed grateful because Pat had paid an entire month's rent in advance.

Back in her room, Pat turned to the "Help Wanted—Female" column. The first advertisement caught her eye: "Wanted, young girl of neat appearance and pleasing personality. Swift typist and accurate in shorthand. Good job for right party."

Pat had been considered a good stenographer and an accurate and rapid typist. "I can't miss that," she decided. "I'll get ready early. The early bird lands the job."

But when Pat, in her damp coat and soaked hat, reached the address, she found the outside hall half-filled with girls, though a sign had been conspicuously posted on a closed door, "Place has been filled."

A girl with dark, cynical eyes looked hard at Pat and said in an audible voice to another girl, "The depression must be hard on a lot of office wives. Even the prettiest don't get jobs these days."

Pat left, feeling very sick and blue. She caught the surface car home. It was a long, tiring ride and she was shaking when she got off the car.

In her eagerness to reach her room, she passed the drug store again without stopping. The shaking had increased and Pat got in bed, piling all the covers she could find over herself, and adding her winter coat.

She was having a chill. It had been stupid to go out. And there was no medicine. Perhaps she would feel better after a while, perhaps the rain would stop and she could go to the drug store. Soon she began to feel hot, terribly hot and dizzy. Oh, if only Joan were here! What was the name of the hotel where Joan was staying? Oh, yes, she remembered—the Breckenridge. When she felt better, she would call Mrs. Baker and ask her to telephone Joan.

Barney and Joan entered the bare little room where Pat had been waging her game fight. Now Joan was on her knees, her lips against Pat's cheek, her tears on Pat's white face.

The doctor, a worried nervous little man, came forward. "She doesn't know any one," he said. "She's been delirious for hours."

"You're the sister!" Mrs. Baker asked. When Joan nodded, the woman continued. "We tried to get you at the hotel. They said you had gone."

Joan felt she was being punished for her carelessness in not leaving a forwarding address—punished more than she could bear.

Barney left the room to find a telephone. He called a hospital.

"It's pneumonia. I want the best doctor you can get!" he stated briefly.

Then another call, relief in his tone. "As fast as you can get here, doctor. And bring your best nurse."

By night Pat's room had taken on a different aspect. A uniformed nurse was moving capably about. One of New York's most famous physicians sat close by the bed, watching the still, white face, placing a practiced hand on the fluttering pulse.

Joan was sitting beside the bed, praying fervently. She had refused to leave Pat even for a short time. And then toward morning a smile lightened the grave face of the physician. The tension was lifted. "You must get some sleep now," the nurse told Joan. "Your sister is better. She's going to get well."

Joan went across the narrow hall to throw herself across the bed and weep her heart out, thankfully. But vigilance was not relaxed.

John stayed on at the dingy rooming house and Barney spent much of his time there, ready to rush off in his car if there were errands.

On the fourth day Pat's blue eyes, deep now in a white face which seemed much too small for them, opened wide. "Lo, Joan." "Darling, darling! You're better. You are going to get well and strong now." Joan was holding Pat close.

"Sick long?"

"It has seemed a long time, dearest."

"The big, strong man?"

"Just Barney, Pat."

A faint smile on Pat's face.

"Nice?"

"Wonderful!"

"She's always over-rating," said Pat, a ghost of her old, teasing smile playing over her face.

"She's well," Barney said, laughing.

"Don't talk now, darling," said Joan. And Pat, wearily, obediently, like a child, turned her face against the pillow and slept.

The nurse came in and Joan and Barney slipped quietly from the room.

"Get your hat," Barney said, "I'm going to take you for a little ride. You're worn out."

They drove by the Jig saw because Barney wanted to leave some instructions for his secretary. He handed Joan an afternoon newspaper.

"Back in a minute," he said.

Joan scanned the front page briefly, passing quickly over headlines on other pages. When she reached the society page her heart contracted suddenly. There was a two column picture of Barbara Courtney. A paragraph below stated that the first of a series of affairs planned for the southern visitor would be a house party at Watch Hill, the beautiful country estate of Mr. Robert Weston, Sr. The newspaper snuck under Joan's trembling hands. Pain stabbing her. "The old pain. Barbara and Bob were engaged, of course, planning perhaps to be married soon."

Barney came back and Joan managed somehow to answer his gay banter. Shadows were falling as the car swung around the curving drive.

Where was her pride, Joan asked herself. How could she let herself care after all this time?

And then Barney's voice, a little unsteady with emotion and very tender. "Joan, dear, I haven't meant to rush you. But I can't bear seeing you troubled like this. I love you. Won't you let me take care of you and Pat always?"

He had stopped the car. Suddenly Joan was crying in the comforting circle of Barney's arms.

Verging On Breakdown

When Nerves and Temper Get All

Awry Your Urgent Need Is

Tonic Treatment With

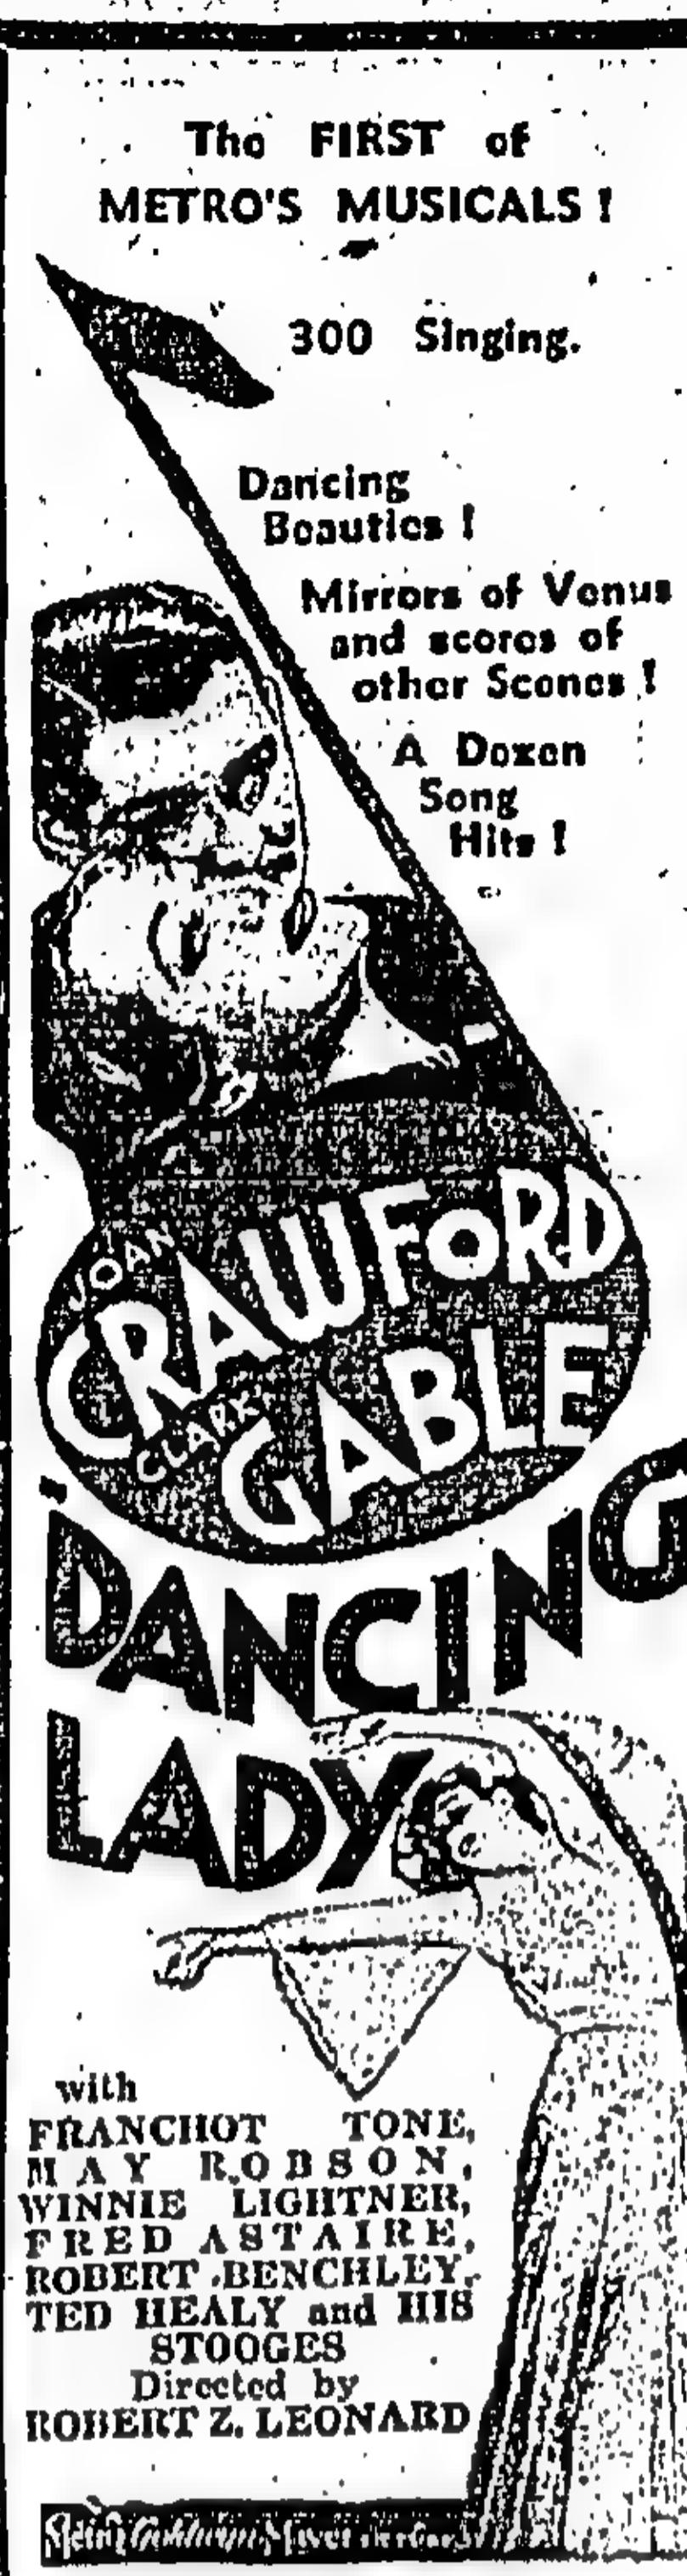

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Business men everywhere are feeling the strain of present day perplexing times. Some can withstand it—those who are youthful, robust, and organically fit—but many find these daily worries severely trying to temper and nerves, with restless nights, fitful appetite, impaired digestion and loss of sleep and cheerfulness their resultant consequences.

The sufferer from mental overstrain should not accept the situation with stoical fortitude, hoping that it will right itself unaided. To do so may be calamitous, for a real nervous breakdown can easily follow such neglect, with disastrous results to the victim, as well as to those dependent upon him.

What is needed is an immediate course of nerve restorative treatment—through the blood—to provide which there is absolutely nothing so good as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

By rapidly increasing the haemoglobin and red corpuscle content of the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills impart new energy, vigour and strength to the whole system, at the same time restoring appetite, cheerfulness and spirit. If your blood is thin, if you are weak, nervous, run-down, depressed, begin a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills without delay, and you will surely be gratified with the results. Chemists everywhere can supply them.

TUESDAY, MARCH 6, 1934.

RADIOPHONE SERVICES

There will be general agreement with the view expressed at yesterday's meeting of the Hongkong Telephone Company that everything possible should be done to expedite the inauguration of a radio telephone service which will link Hongkong with the outside world. The Company, with characteristic enterprise, has been keenly interested in this matter for a very considerable time, but circumstances have militated against a fulfilment of its hopes. Had these hopes been realised, telephone-users in Hongkong would by now have been able to speak by word of mouth with people in practically every big city of the world. Due to a variety of reasons, including the effect of the depression on Imperial and International Communications, Ltd., negotiations with the concern have terminated without result. The Hongkong Government is, however, now taking the matter up from another angle, and the expectation is that a service will be available some time next year. No indication is forthcoming as to the nature of the new plans, excepting that the intention is to work through Shanghai. This is in line with the suggestion thrown out by the General Post Office in London towards the latter part of last year when a Telegraph representative discussed the project with Government officials there. Already Shanghai has been actively engaged in working out its plans. At the Chenchu wireless station, there has been installed a big plant providing direct telegraphic service with London, and this has been followed up by trial tests of direct radio talks, which are said to have been most satisfactory. It is therefore clear that Shanghai is going ahead in determination to make use of modern means of rapid communication with the outside world. With matters so well advanced, it should be possible for Hongkong to come into the link without undue delay. If, as seems to be the case, the Hongkong Government is in a position to exercise an influence on the conclusion of the necessary arrangements, it is sincerely to be hoped that it will strain every effort to see that this Colony is at an early date given its rightful place in the network of services now covering the greater part of the

NOTES OF THE DAY

MORAL PROBLEM

"Supposing the German people had been able to subdue a certain sense of personal resentment," said a student of foreign affairs the other day. Suppose they had accepted permanently the disarming clauses of the Versailles Treaty and sought to make the best of them. What might have been the result upon their national fortunes?" The proposition is interesting. Naturally it divides itself into the consideration of the material advantages and disadvantages which might have resulted from such a programme, and the moral advantages or disadvantages. Curiously enough, it is a moral phase of the problem which probably has the most influence upon the German policy to-day. For the question as to material advantages offers but little opportunity for argument. Germany would save enormously in governmental expenditures if her people could content themselves with the position of military inferiority imposed upon them by the Versailles Treaty.

NATIONAL PRIDE

But here enters the question of national pride, or perhaps as they might prefer to put it, national self-respect. The Germans might be very willing to hold their expenditures down to an infinitesimal sum, in comparison to that of their neighbours, if they had adopted this policy, as Switzerland has, or Sweden, or Denmark, of their own volition. What they object to is having it forced upon them. Obviously, this affront to German self-respect would be eliminated were the other powers of Europe to carry out loyally their specific obligation to disarm themselves down to the German level. If this were done they would all be limited in their military and naval expenditures by a mutual consideration for the public good. This consideration they refuse to manifest, though insisting that Germany should observe it. Naturally, this failure to fulfil a solemn agreement is most offensive to Germany, and produced the revolt of that nation against a situation forced upon it unwillingly, but which under other circumstances would be nothing but a great national benefit, and a notable aid in recuperation from the tremendous financial shock of the World War.

BRITAIN'S CABINET

Rumours of a reshuffling of the British Cabinet persist from apparently authoritative quarters. A possible explanation might be found in the old saw suggesting that the wish is father to the thought, for there are many Englishmen who are acutely dissatisfied with the conduct of Britain's foreign policies, while recognising Sir John Simon's great personal qualities. The great importance of the matter cannot be exaggerated to-day when the work that commands the first attention of the government is in the international sphere. Intensely believing in democracy, Britain must help uphold the democratic ideal. Believing with equal intensity in peace, it must aid disarmament. Believing in the necessity of world trade, it must endeavour to make headway against economic nationalism. Here are a few only of those objects, transcending everything else in public importance, which make ordinary party issues seem small in comparison; and the desire for a National Government is due to the passionate desire that the nation's cause should be strongly stated and upheld in the world.

FOREIGN POLICY

That does not mean that the country is satisfied with the steps already taken. It is not. There is a definite feeling especially on the political Left that Britain ought to adopt a more positive policy where the great interlocking questions of armaments and security are concerned. There is also still very strong feeling that the conduct of foreign affairs could be made more likely to be effective in the hands of an individual who places less emphasis on legal forms, always provided the National Government basis is preserved. No-one is exactly complimentary regarding the present government's achievements. But it is felt that a party government would have fared much worse. Not that criticism and opposition have disappeared. But they are taking a new form, and they do not generally, run upon the old party lines. There has been much talk about a "centre party." But there is no need to form one. There already is one. It consists of that large group of persons—the Left Wing of the Conservatives, the Right Wing of the Liberals, and a sprinkling of Labour—who constitute the backbone of the Government's supporters.

THE NEW GERMAN LABOUR ACT

By Dr. KROHN, of the Ministry of Labour

THE social-political importance of the new German "Act to regulate Labour conditions" is immense; and it is not too much to say that it inaugurates a new era in Germany's social policy. Until now, conditions of Labour were regulated by legislation based on the acknowledgment of the principle of class war; but the new law entirely eliminates this principle. This does not mean that the divergence of the interests of employers on the one hand and employees on the other is ignored. The authors of the new Act recognise that such divergences, where they exist, must be reconciled. Instead, however, of resorting to the methods of class war in order to achieve this purpose, an entirely novel structure has been built up, which does full justice to the economic interests of both sides and—beyond that—to the national interests in general.

Under the legislation now superseded, the federations of employers and employees were entrusted with the exercise of the social-political rights and duties here concerned. This system had led to an all-round lack of elasticity in connection with the fixing of salaries and wages, and had thus become unsuitable for the needs of the body economic, more especially in times of industrial unrest. The result was that the difficulties, in many instances, became insuperable, that private responsibility was shunned, and that the final decisions had to be made by the State. The situation was aggravated by the linking-up of the economic struggle with the political one; and there was a real danger of the complete breakdown of all constitutional forms.

In the course of the national revolution the existing trades unions were dissolved. The law passed on May 19th, 1933, governing the appointment of Trustees of Labour, adjusted the legal position to the actual facts, and provided a provisional method for the conclusion of employment contracts. The functions hitherto exercised by the economic federations were transferred to the Trustees of Labour pending the definite introduction of a new social-economic constitution. Formally, the federations continued to be the parties concluding wages agreements; and the terms of the latter were only applicable to the members of the federations concerned, except in cases in which their universal application was made compulsory. The new Act does away with this intermediary settlement and creates an entirely new social-economic structure.

NEW STRUCTURE

The nucleus of the new constitution is the individual undertaking. All internal affairs, more particularly the conditions of work, are regulated by the undertaking itself. The owner occupies the position of a work's leader; and he decides in all questions affecting the employees. An advisory body composed of elected members of the staff and presided over by himself, called the Confidential Council, assists him in all social-political matters. The Council represents the joint interests of the undertaking as a whole.

Members of the Confidential Council are chosen from a list of suitable candidates drawn up by the works' leader in co-operation with the secretary of the National Socialist cell organisation. The election is effected by secret ballot.

The Very Joke!

SPRING DRAWS ON MADAM!

By Edward Kelly, Feverish.

NOW is the time when all young men turn their thoughts to better things.

Birds twittering in the trees. Maybe it was because an official of the Forestry Department walked underneath one of these trees that they're cutting 'em down now in Nathan Road.

But all this is besides the point. Dammit, Spring is here!

Spring! When young men's fancies turn to love. Even the school kids are getting poetic about it.

Georgie Porgie
Pumpkin pie;
Kissed the girls
And made 'em cry.

Love is a wonderful thing. See how it's lasted through the ages. Thousands of years ago, before people could speak, they used to love.

They kissed each other tenderly, just as you and we do. Their bosoms heaved, there was the same old ecstasy in their embrace and.... We could go on like this for pages and pages, but we, too, are only flesh and blood, and we've got to keep our mind on our work.

Love is perpetual emotion, and according to the literature in our dentist's waiting room, there will be an even bigger boom in marriages in 1925 than there were in 1924.

Speaking of marriages, reminds us of a girl we know who got married and gave her husband the heir.

Fortunately, we've managed to steer clear of marriage. We are rather cynical about marriage, in fact.

We agree with the chappie who said that when a dog leads a man, he's blind, but when a man leads a dog, he's married.

Anyway, our love is alkaline. It wouldn't stand the test.

Which is all we have to say about Spring.

Good night, girls. If you talk in your sleep, don't mention our name!

THE NEXT WAR

With Japanese and Russians snarling at each other and all sorts of ominous rumblings going on in Europe and various prominent people discussing what the next war will be like, inquiries have been made of The Telegraph as to when the next war will take place.

The inquiries have been referred to Edward Kelly who, having just made the acquaintance of the science of numbers, promptly supplies the following answer:

U. S. AIR MAIL SCANDALS.

INFORMATION LEAKAGE SUSPECTED.

Washington, Mar. 5. Evidence that a block of 4,500 United Aircraft shares were sold on behalf of the J. P. Morgan Company a fortnight before the cancellation of the air mail contracts, was presented before the Senate Banking Committee to-day in a list of sellers submitted by the New York Stock Exchange. The Committee ordered a thorough investigation to determine whether there was a leakage of information concerning the Government's decision to cancel the air mail contracts.—Reuter.

WORLD COTTON STATISTICS

GREATER ACTIVITY OF MILLS

London, Mar. 6. The world's cotton mill consumption for the half-year ended January 31st was 12,619,000 bales, this being an increase of 637,000 bales, according to statistics compiled by the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and the Manufacturers' Association.

The largest increase was in East Indian cotton, the consumption of which was 2,352,000 bales, an increase of 294,000 bales. The world's mill stocks were 5,216,000, against 4,642,000 in January, 1933.

The world's spindles were 157,631,000, compared with 157,765,000 last July, the British being 49,001,000 and the Japanese 8,209,000 last August, compared with 57,136,000 and 6,272,000 respectively in 1928.—Reuter.

INFRINGEMENT OF TRADE MARKS

FURTHER PROTEST TO JAPAN.

London, Mar. 5. Mr. Sommerville, Conservative M.P., this evening drew the attention of the House of Commons to the number of lawsuits pending in Britain, against Japanese representatives for the infringement of trade marks and the representation of Japanese goods as British.

Dr. E. Leslie Burgin, replying on behalf of Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, said the British Ambassador to Tokyo was recently instructed to make representations to the Japanese Government with view to the suppression of these acts of unfair competition.—Reuter.

JAPANESE NAVAL TOUR

"IDZUMA" COMING SOUTH

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, March 6. Admiral Imaura, Commander of the Japanese Third Fleet on the China Station is sailing for the South aboard his flagship, the Idzuma, accompanied by two destroyers.

He is expected to pay a visit to Hongkong, after completing his tour of inspection at Amoy, Swatow and South China ports.—Central News.

THE CHANGSHA CONSULATE

TO BE RE-OPENED NEXT JUNE

London, March 6. In the House of Commons to-night, Sir John Simon said he expected that the Consulate at Changsha would be re-opened next June.—Reuter.

The m.v. Silvercypress, from New York, sailed from Shanghai on the 6th instant and is expected here on the 8th instant at daylight.

Arriving in Hongkong on the 8th, President Coolidge on March 16th, is Miss Betty Marlo, the well-known violinist and radio star. Miss Marlo has been broadcasting over International Broadcasting Co. radio in America and is on a trip around the world.

THREE ASSAULT CASES

WIDOW AMONG THE VICTIMS

A shop cooler, Wu Kau, was fined $10 and bound over by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning for assaulting So You, a travelling trader.

Sub-Inspector Smith said defendant accused the complainant of being a police informer and struck him whilst at the Macao Wharf. Defendant had been in trouble previously and alleged that complainant was the informer.

In a second case of assault which came before the magistrate, Luk Mau, a cobbler, was bound over for striking Wu Tong, a truck owner.

It was stated that where the complainant had a number of his trucks parked there was a collection of rubbish which he swept away with a broom which he borrowed from the cobbler. The latter resented the procedure and grabbing the broom out of his hand, struck Luk Mau over the head. The injury necessitated a stitch, but it was not serious.

Chau Ho, married woman, and a man named Lei On, were charged before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with having assaulted Ng Sam-tai, widow, at Mong Lung Street, Shaukiwan. The complainant was hit on the cheek with a brick.

Both defendants admitted the charges, but as the assault was not serious, they were ordered to pay $2 compensation each, and all three bound over in sums of $50 each to keep the peace for six months.

BRITISH POSTAL CHANGES

NEW ALLOCATION OF REVENUE

London, Mar. 5. Sir Ernest Bennett, Assistant Postmaster General, in a speech at Rugby referring to the changes taking place in the administrative management of the Post Office, said that at the end of the month it would enter on a new stage of its financial development, in accordance with the recommendations of the Bridgeman Committee. Hitherto the revenue earned by the Post Office had been handed over to the Exchequer. In future, a definite sum of $10,750,000 would be contributed to the national revenue, and any surplus would be retained by the Post Office and expended for the benefit of the public generally in the development of services or reduction of charges.

The scheme was experimental, but it had every prospect of proving an outstanding success.—British Wireless.

BRITISH FUNDS BUOYANT

NEW HIGH LEVEL OF WAR LOAN

London, Mar. 5. British funds were again active on the London Stock Exchange, where buoyant condition prevailed in almost sections.

Further substantial gains were recorded in British Government stocks, under the lead of consols 2½ per cent. at 82½, which is the highest point reached for many years. War Loan 3½ per cent. improved to a new high level of 103.16/16.—British Wireless.

TIN RESTRICTION

NO CHANGE IN OUTPUT QUOTA

London, March 5. In a communiqué, issued after a meeting of the International Tin Committee to-day, it was revealed that the Committee had decided not to recommend a change in the output quota from April 1.

The next meeting will be held in Paris on May 16.—Reuter.

The weddings are announced to take place shortly of Mr. Walter Montgomerie Groves, clerk of 18, Kent Rd, Kowloon, Tong to Miss Maxine Skoglund, bank clerk, of Stratford, New Zealand, who is on her way to the Colony on the a.s. Kamo Maru; Mr. Robert Barr, Bell ship-builder, of 4, Miss Mary Lang, Wilcox, stenographer, of 13, Stanley Terrace; Mr. Carlos Marlo da Silva, of 23 Jordan Rd, to Miss Esther Maria da Souza Carvalho, of 1, Cambay Buildings, Kowloon.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

LAW SHOULD BE LIKE DEATH, WHICH SPARES NO ONE.—Montgomery.

For hawking his wares aboard the steamer Fat Shan without a licence, a young Chinese was fined $20 or two weeks' prison by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning. Sub-Inspector Smith said a steamship licence cost $24.

RESCUE OF MAROONED FISHERMEN

FINE WORK BY STEAMERS AND AEROPLANES

Moscow, Mar. 5. All but 84 of the 400 marooned fishermen, victims adrift on an ice-block which broke away from the ice-field in the Caspian Sea, have now been rescued.

Steamers and aeroplanes have been used for this purpose, and it is hoped that the rescue of the remaining men, who are still marooned on the ice-floes, will be shortly accomplished.—Reuter.

ber of years through inertia, partly the inertia of leaders, and partly that of the people themselves.

The Recovery Act was drawn up for the greatest good of the greatest number and they had sought a balance in the economic system, in order that their internal markets should be kept rich and large, and also that trade with other nations should increase on both sides of the ledger. He denounced destructive criticism, but welcomed constructive suggestions.

President Roosevelt expressed satisfaction that most of the criticism was not levelled at the Recovery Act itself, but against the details and method of the Act.

N.R.A. OBJECTIVE.

The whole objective of the N.R.A. was to raise the public purchasing power. No-one was opposed to sensible and reasonable profits, but a great segment of the people was in actual distress and when it came to a question of humanity, they must be considered first, he said. There was no room for hesitation.

"With millions still unemployed, the purchasing power of the people remains greatly curtailed and can only be increased and sustained by striving for the lowest schedule of prices on which higher wages and increased employment can be maintained," he went on.

The Government could not for ever continue to absorb all the burden of unemployment. The urgent need was to get more people working.

GOVT. DETERMINED.

"With few exceptions, industry will give its whole-hearted compliance with our endeavour, but in rare cases where industrial self-government fails, the Government must and will, move firmly and promptly in order to prevent failure," declared the President.

"The Code authorities are the keepers of their industrial brothers," he added, "and they must establish every safeguard against erasing the small operator from the scene. The Codes should check reverse competitive methods whereby 'the little fellow' is being squeezed out."—Reuter.

INDIA QUAKE RECONSTRUCTION

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN ARRANGED

London, Mar. 5. Sir Samuel Hoare, replying in the Commons to a question regarding reconstructive works in progress in relation to the recent earthquake in India, said a comprehensive plan had been worked out by the Government of India and the Government of Bihar, in consultation, covering the reconstruction of Government buildings, financial assistance to the local authorities and relief to private sufferers.

A special Commissioner has been appointed by the Bihar Government and with the financial assistance given from central revenues, he had no doubt the work of reconstruction would be vigorously taken up.—British Wireless.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET EASY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culberson and Fritz, the New York market was slightly easy yesterday. Business done $50,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports:—After a day long of irregularity the general list firms slightly near the close due to a spurt in mining shares which was caused by first reports that the Silverites plan to force the administration's hand on remonetization and second, Homestake Mining spurted 20 points to $30, a new high for 1934, due to rumours that the Government would probably raise the gold price shortly to prevent any sharp setback in commodity prices. Earlier irregularity was due to Wall Street taking the President's speech breathlessly when he intimated favouring higher wages and shorter hours which reduce profits. Curb stocks were fractionally lower due to lack of buying interest. Bonds were strong due to a firmness in foreign issues.

Our New York office cables:—Stocks: Were moderately lower in a dull session as the market awaits news. Wheat: Interest was lacking and prices eased on professional selling. With the visible supply heavily decreased and cold weather in the northwest, we still hold to the buying side. Cotton: An increase in the Gold Price is being urged and continued silver agitation has a standing effect on the market but trade buying was slack. The speculating interest was inactive and some tired long liquidation was noticeable. Southern offerings were reported increasing at high prices. The basis looks temporarily high enough.

AUSTRALIAN DAVIS CUP TEAM WITHOUT A

BELOW PAR
TENNIS
AT H.K.C.C.CAPT. CANNON IN DREARY GAMEHACHIUMA'S SAD
LAPSES

RUMJAHNS WIN

(By "Veritas").

A week off the tennis courts seemed to have its effect on all of the players who appeared in yesterday's open championship matches, and the standard of play fell considerably below par.

Captain P. S. Cannon chopped and sliced his way into the third round of the singles, at the expense of Ng Kam-chuen, who rather foolishly tried to play the winner at his own game. Captain Cannon had better control over his shots, although his win was not very convincing.

It is seldom one sees Hachiuma so completely lose control over his strokes as he did when partnering J. W. Leonard against Fincher and Goldman.

The result was a cakewalk for last year's finalists. Hachiuma was continually making mistakes both from the baseline and net, and Leonard had no chance of covering them up.

The Rumjahn cousins waited for Wright and Gray to make the errors and to collect the points for a 6-1, 6-1 entry into the third round. It was poor calibre tennis.

TO-DAY'S GAMES.

There is the promise of one or two attractive games this afternoon. Duff and Sullivan make their second appearances in the doubles, opposed to Tam Yee-fong and Ng Kam-chuen. This should offer a better opportunity of gauging the strength of the British pair's challenge for the title. Duff may be called upon to do some extra work.

Ricketts, putting in some quiet practice yesterday, will at last play off his third round tie with Lu Tak-cheuk, and I expect to see him win in straight sets. He is among the best stylists in local tennis and has a very concrete all round game.

Cannon and Owen-Hughes should win comfortably against Pile and Millard.

The programme is:

OPEN SINGLES.

G. R. M. Ricketts v Lu Tak-cheuk

OPEN DOUBLES.

Capt. Cannon and H. Owen-Hughes v C. E. Millard and C. Pile

Tam Yee-fong and Ng Kam-chuen v W. A. H. Duff and A. L. Sullivan

DOCKYARD CLUB WIN

BEAT OFFICERS' CLUB

The Dockyard Recreation Club defeated the Dockyard Officers' Club in a tennis match on the hard courts at the D.R.C. on Saturday last, winning by 6½ and scoring rubbers to 2½, 14 sets to 5 and 100 games to 77.

The return match will be played on March 17. Complete scores of last week's encounter were:

Engineer Captain R. C. Hugill and Commander (E) W. G. Cowland (D.O.C.), lost to R. B. Hamby & E. Gaubert 6-3, 6-4; lost to A. E. Collins & G. W. Leverett 6-4, 8-0; beat W. Matthews & A. N. Burningham 2-6, 6-4, 8-6.

W. H. Wallond & S. L. Hill (D.O.C.), lost to Hamby & Gaubert 6-4, 6-4; lost to Collins & Leverett 6-2, 6-4; beat Matthews & Burningham 6-3.

R. Henderson & H. C. Tyson (D.O.C.), lost to Hamby & Gaubert 6-1, 6-0; lost to Collins & Leverett 6-3, 6-2; draw with Matthews & Burningham 6-7, 7-6.

MANAGER

MR. YOUDALE DECLINES
INVITATIONSTORM OVER HARRY HOPMAN

Omission Is Resented

Mr. Stanley Youdale, who so successfully carried out the duties of managing the Australian Davis Cup team last year, has declined the invitation of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association to act in that capacity this season.

"Although the work last year was at times hard, it was a pleasant experience," said Mr. Youdale, "but I do not think I can manage to devote another summer to looking after the team."

Mr. Youdale said that he had informed the president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia (Mr. Norman Brookes) that he was unable to accept the invitation, and although he had been pressed to alter his decision it was unlikely that he would do so.

Mr. Youdale will sail for England by the Orford, on which the members of the Davis Cup team will also travel.

HOPMAN'S OMISSION.

The exclusion of Harry Hopman from the Australian team has aroused a storm of protest all over the country, the majority of opinion being that he is a better player than D. P. Turnbull, by whom he has been preferred.

MISS HARTIGAN FOR WIMBLEDON.

The council of the L.T.A. of Australia has decided to contribute £100 towards the expense of sending Miss Joan Hartigan, the holder of the women's singles championship of Australia, to Wimbledon.

The news that the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia has granted £100 towards Miss Joan Hartigan's expenses will be received with gratification, writes Dr. G. H. McElhone in the Sydney Morning Herald. When the national association refused at first to make the grant the State association gave permission for a series of night exhibition tennis matches to raise the sum. These matches will not now be necessary.

The announcement that H. Hopman will not be included in the Davis Cup team is to be regretted. It was felt that Hopman would be included. Hopman is one of Australia's finest doubles players. He has done well with a number of partners. It was obvious to keen students of the game that Hopman and Quist were an ideal pair. They possess all the qualifications necessary to become a match winning factor.

Many a Davis Cup match has depended on the results of the doubles and this year should prove no exception. It is possible that if Australia meets Great Britain in the challenge round, the doubles match will be the vital test, and without Hopman Australia's chances of success are decreased.

Australia lost last year because of the altered pairing at the eleventh hour. This lesson must have been overlooked. Hopman is the player who can assist Australia to victory. There is still time to include him in the team.

Australia will therefore be represented in the 1934 Davis Cup competition by the following team:

J. Crawford,
V. B. McGrath,
A. K. Quist,
D. P. Turnbull.

The selectors (Messrs. Norman E. Brookes, J. Clemenger, H. Malcolm, and N. Peach), whose report and selection were adopted by the Council of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia selected H. Hopman as fifth man to join the team in the event of any of the selected four being unable to make the trip.

A cablegram was received from the English Lawn Tennis Association formally accepting the challenge of Australia in the European zone for the 1934 series, and advising that it would contribute £750 toward the expense of the Australian team.

All discussion concerning the conditions upon which the Australian players were prepared to or would be permitted to make the tour was taken in camera.

A request from South Africa that the team should play several matches on its way to Europe drew from members of the council comment upon the overtaxing of players, and it was decided to reply that no matches could be arranged.

Discussing a request from the Tasmanian Association that some of the members of the team should play at Hobart before going abroad, the president (Mr. Norman Brookes) said that Crawford was prepared to play in Tasmania only if McGrath could accompany him. The matter was left to the two players.

A motion that the council should assume control of all members of the team from the date of selection was carried.

EXPERTS' OPINIONS.

Experts expressed differing opinions on the team.

Mr. Horace Rice, a former Davis Cup player, said he would have chosen Crawford, McGrath, Quist, and Hopman. "I think Hopman is essential for the doubles," he said.

Mr. W. B. Dine, a State selector, said Hopman's international experience would have meant much to his side at critical periods.

THE VILLA
EQUAL
A RECORD13TH F. A. CUP
SEMI-FINALWILL MEET
MANCHESTER CITYPORTSMOUTH V
LEICESTER

Manchester City, last year's finalists will meet Aston Villa in the semi-final of the English Cup according to the draw made in London yesterday.

Portsmouth, the team with a series of brilliant away victories to their credit, are opposed to Leicester City.

The matches will be played on Saturday week, the Villa and Manchester meeting at Huddersfield and Portsmouth and Leicester at Birmingham.

The draw ensures the North being represented in the final, and the other bracket will be filled by either a Midland or Southern club.

This will be Aston Villa's thirteenth appearance in the semi-final, which equals the record held by Blackburn Rovers. Manchester City are in the last four for the sixth time, and Portsmouth for the second.

LEICESTER'S FIRST.

It is the first occasion on which Leicester have figured in the semi-final.

The Villa have been in eight finals and have won the Cup six times, the last occasion being in 1919-20, when they beat Huddersfield 1-0 after extra time.

Manchester City have thrice reached the final stage, and once lifted the Cup beating Bolton Wanderers 1-0 in 1903-4. Last year they lost to Everton at Wembley 3-0, and in 1925-6, were defeated by Bolton Wanderers 1-0.

Portsmouth's only Cup final to date was in losing by two clear goals.

The following team will represent the Club "A" XV in a match against H.M.S. Cumberland on Wednesday: K. Noblo, A. D. Lowson, R. C. Allan, W. E. Peers, A. H. Harford, I. Hutchison, H. C. Meekie, C. Austin, R. G. Castleton, R. I. Cherrill, J. T. Edkins, D. P. Turnbull—Australian junior singles champion, and singles champion of South Australia, 1930. He won the French plate, beating V. B. McGrath in the final.

Reserves selected are W. R. Andrews and D. M. Wheeler. The match will be played on the Club ground at 5 p.m.

Indo-China And The Far
Eastern OlympicsSUCCESSFUL APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION

French Indo-China has for the second time applied for membership in the Far Eastern Athletic Association so that she may compete in the forthcoming Far Eastern Olympics, according to Dr. Regino R. Yilan, national physical director.

The sports moguls of French Indo-China have requested for a reconsideration of their application with a view to securing a favourable vote from Japan, which country disapproved of their membership in the Far Eastern Athletic Association, the first time the application was put into a vote.

The Netherlands is another country seeking membership in the Far Eastern Athletic Association. The application of this country will be forwarded to China and Japan with a view to securing their votes.

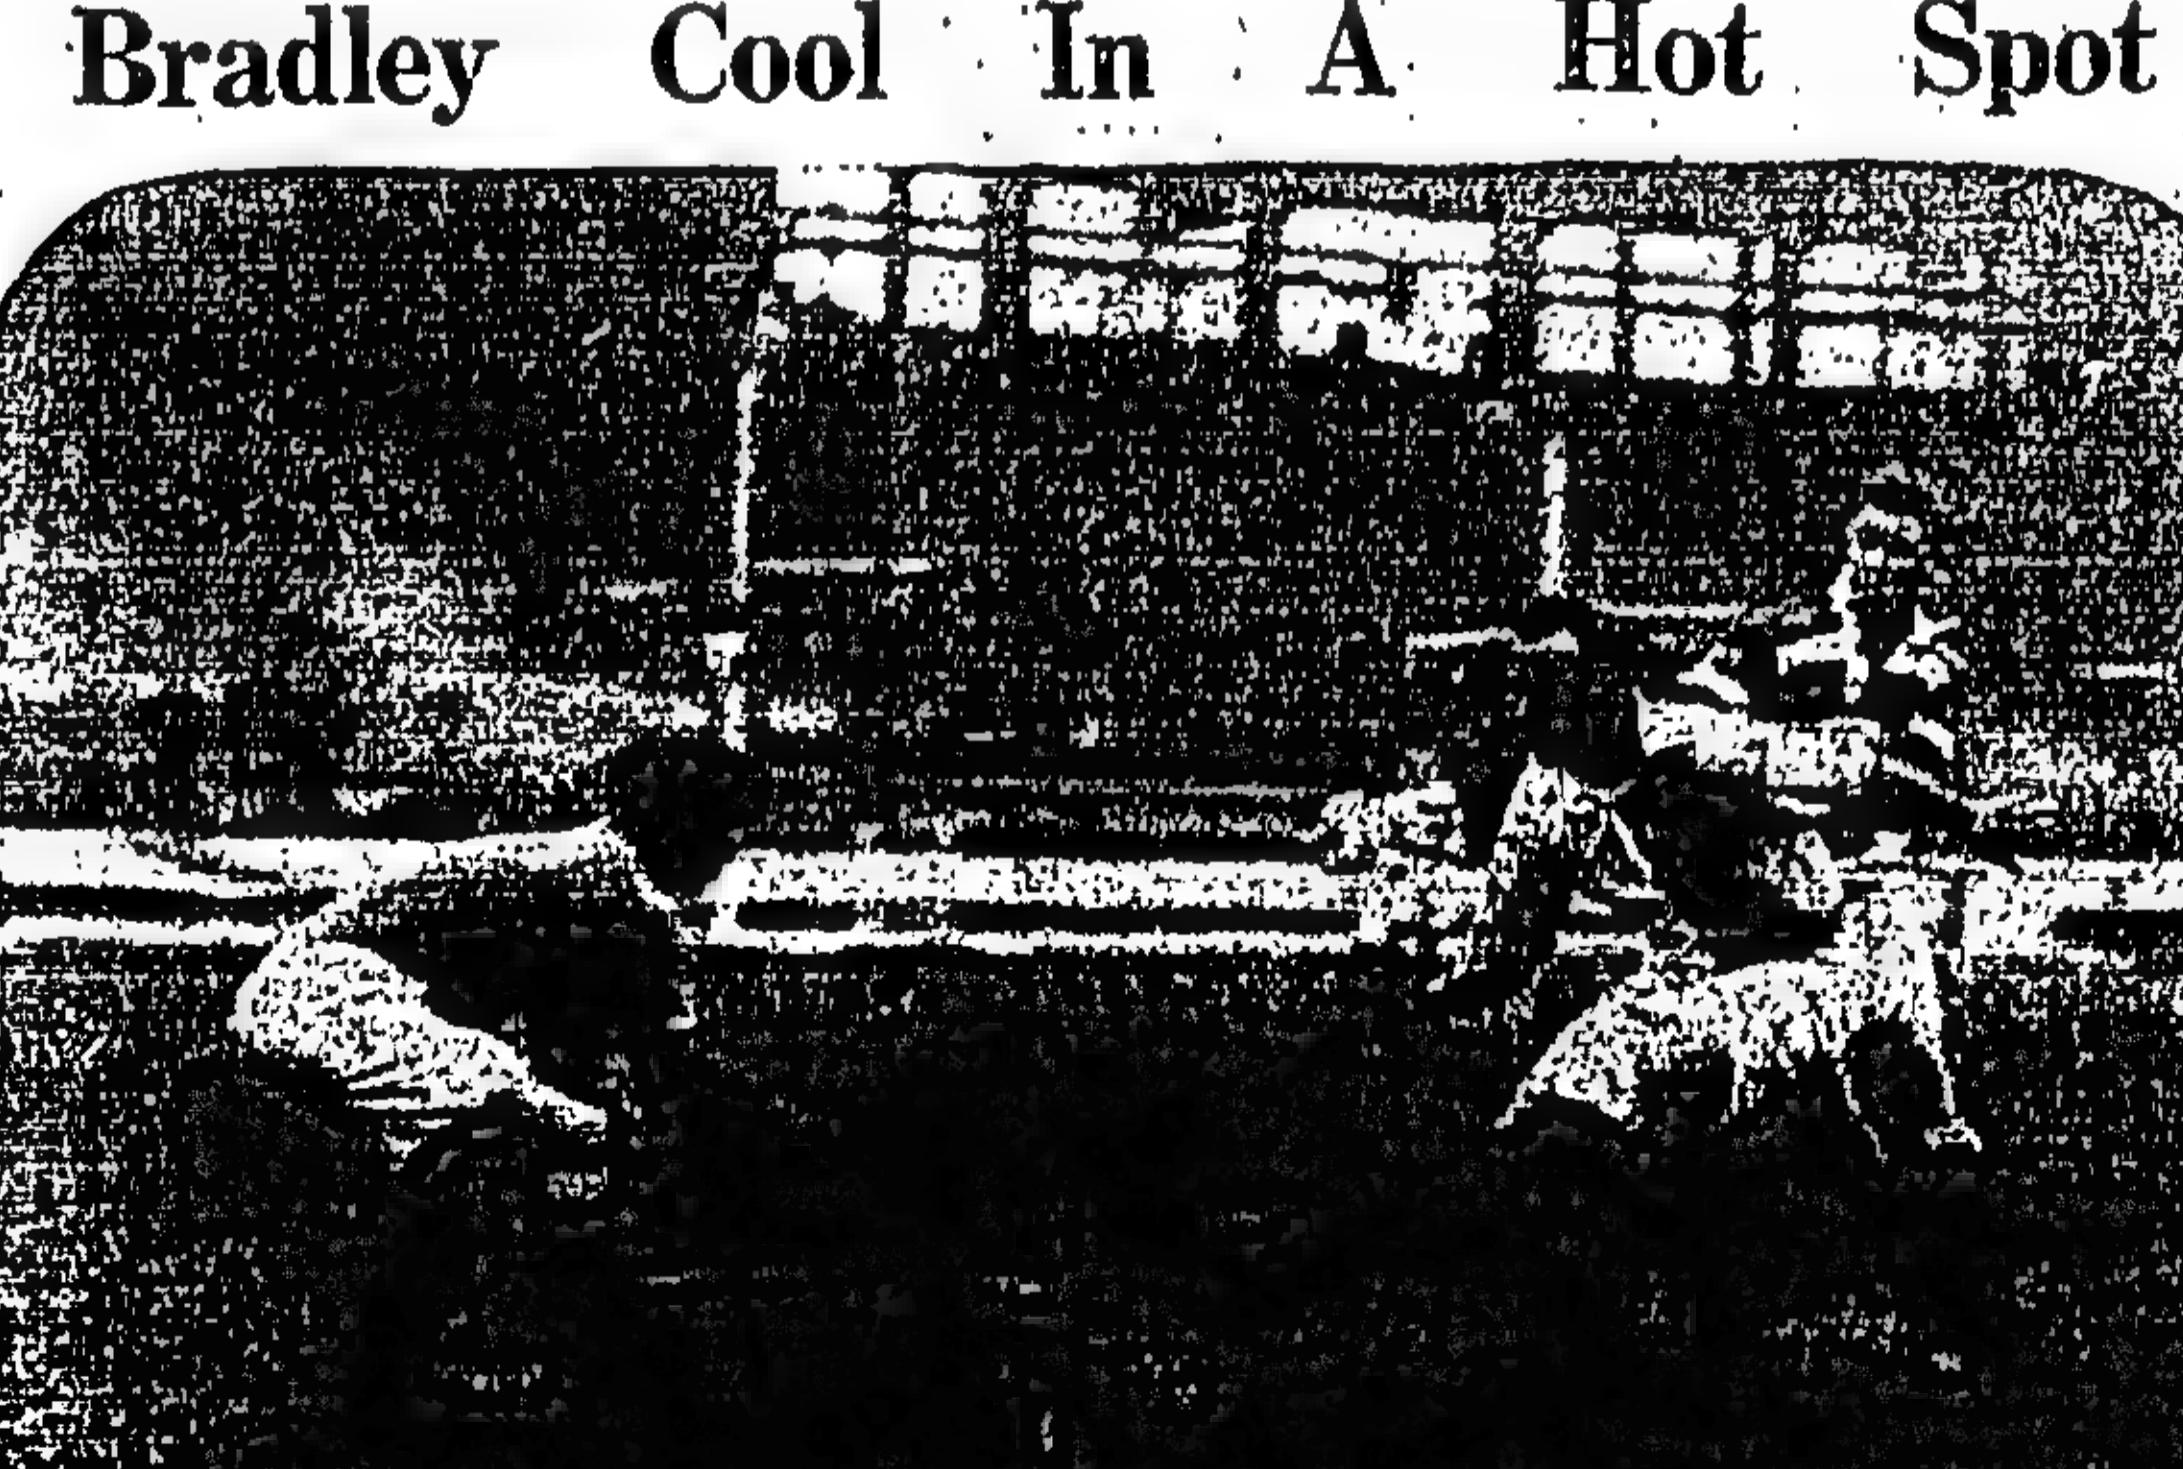

Explaining the stand of the local amateur athletic federation with regards to applications for new membership in the Far Eastern Athletic Association, Dr. Yilan declared yesterday that as a host during the forthcoming Far Eastern Olympics it could be expected that the federation would welcome as many competitors as possible in the meet. This also goes for Manchukuo he said.

While not at all revealing the stand taken by the local federation regarding the entrance of Manchukuo in the forthcoming Olympics, Dr. Yilan declared yesterday that before a country could be taken into the folds of the Far Eastern Athletic Association a unanimous vote of the countries forming the association must first be secured. In the case of Manchukuo, Dr. Yilan explained that Manila, Mar. 5. As a result of reconsideration, Japan is now favourable to the admittance of Indo-China to the Far East Olympiad. Officials here to-day announced that five nations are now scheduled to participate in the Far Eastern Olympics. The Netherlands Dutch Indies are also expected to take part in the Games.—United Press.

Whether Japan will carry out her threat of withdrawing from the association in the event that Manchukuo is not allowed to participate in the Far Eastern Olympics, Dr. Yilan explained that Japan may not withdraw from the Far Eastern Olympics even if Manchukuo's application is voted down for the second time by the Chinese.

Bradley Cool In A Hot Spot

Bradley, the Police custodian, had many thrilling moments during the Skottow Cup semi-final at the Caudron Shanghai last week, but not many as thrilling as this, when he went down on his knee to stop a shot from point blank range. Police drew with the Worcesters one-all.

ASSAULT ON REFEREE

SHANGHAI CASE SETTLED

LAW SUIT NOW WITHDRAWN

Through the efforts of Dr. C. T. Wang, veteran diplomat and chairman of the board of directors of the China National Amateur Athletic Federation, the alleged assault case of the referee, Mr. W. T. Sung, by a student of the Chiaotung University has been amicably settled.

Mr. Sung, a member of the Chinese Referees' Association and the Referees' Society of Shanghai, was mobbed on December 16, 1933, immediately after the championship match of the Kiangnan Inter-collegiate Football Tournament between the Chiaotung University and the Chianan University, on the former's ground in Siccawei Road.

Chinan won the match by one goal to nil, the solitary point being scored through a penalty kick. The unruly section of the big crowd accused the referee of injustice awarding the penalty. At the expiration of time some 200 undergraduates attacked the official, causing bodily injuries.

It is understood that the student who participated in the attack, was obliged to pay all the medical expenses amounting to $200 and legal charges of $600. The Chinese Referees' Association received a letter of apology from the Chiaotung authorities for not affording adequate protection to its member.

JAPANESE SECOND IN SKI RELAY

Lose By Close Margin To German Team

Tokyo, Feb. 27. By a close margin of minute and 11 seconds, the Japanese ski team missed the first place in the relay game held yesterday in Bavaria in the third day of the German Students' Ski Championship Meeting being held at Garmisch, coming in second to the German team.

The German team covered the 80 kilometers course in 2 hours 10 minutes and 23 seconds, the Japanese team in 2 hours 11 minutes and 34 seconds, and the Swiss team in 2 hours 23 minutes and 16 seconds.

The Japanese student skiers left Garmisch yesterday for Munich, whence they will proceed to Marsselles via Paris.

They will embark in the N.Y.K. liner s.s. Hakozaki Maru at Marsselles for home.

MIDGET RACING CAR AROUSES INTEREST

150 Miles An Hour Made In Trial Performance

London. A new German racing car, which is to compete in the big international racing events in Europe, has just been produced in Berlin.

It is known as the "P-Aus" car, after its designer, Porosho, and when taken out on a trial run with Hans Stuck driving, the car did about 160 miles per hour, a speed which it is said will easily be increased later.

The car presents a curious appearance. Four metres long and scarcely a metre high, it will be one of the smallest cars on the track.

Its 16-cylinder engine is installed at the rear of the car with the radiator in front.

MERCHANT'S FINE BATTING

Bombay, Mar. 5. Thanks to a painstaking knock by Merchant, who scored 89 not out, the Indian XI were able to pass the M.C.C., first innings total when the match on behalf of the earthquake victims was continued to-day.

In reply to the Englishmen's 224, the Indians hit up 238, adding 173 for the last eight wickets. Nichol was the only bowler to meet with any success and his four wickets cost 68 runs.

Batting a second time, the M.C.C. scored 182 for four wickets before close of play.—Reuter.

Idea of turning pro after last season. The future probably looks trifling uncertain for him in amateur tennis but he couldn't get together with his old "pal," Big Bill Tilden, and he likely won't. Meanwhile, it appears that with Vines in the pro ranks and Wilmer Allison passing out of the picture a new opportunity in 1934 has been heard by Master Lott.

LOTT'S DETERMINATION. "This year I am going to keep it up," remarked Lott, by way of confirmation, after he won the Miami Biltmore tournament. "I don't know, myself, why I lose interest in singles during the summer season but I don't think it will happen again. Anyway, I've got more incentive this year and it will be fun to see what happens."

Most of the experts now think that's all it will be this year—fun for our lads and victory for either the British or Australians in the Davis Cup play. That's why Lott may be projected into a very good spot. There will be no over-confidence whatever in the American ranks and it is just possible, barely, that Lott & Company might strike a few good days at the right time.—United Press.

FEWER BRITISH UNEMPLOYED

LATEST FIGURES SATISFACTORY

London, March 5. It is estimated that on February 19, there were approximately 9,041,000 insured persons aged from 16 to 64 in employment in Great Britain. This was 67,000 more than a month before and 625,600 more than a year before.

Industries showing the greatest improvement during the past month were building and public works contracting, tailoring, boot and shoe manufacture, and pottery manufacture. There was also some improvement in the iron and steel, engineering, and motor vehicle industries, and in the shipping service. At February 19, the numbers of unemployed persons on the registers of the Employment Exchanges in Great Britain were 1,881,532 wholly unemployed, 340,827 temporarily stopped, and 95,480 normally in casual employment.

The total was 71,159 less than the number on the registers on January 22 and 538,729 less than the year before. The total on February 19, 1934, comprised 1,883,782 men, 58,368 boys, 328,146 women and 47,613 girls.—British Wireless.

NEWFOUNDLAND FINANCES CONVERSION OFFER RESPONSE

London, March 5. Supplementary estimates presented to the House of Commons on behalf of the Dominions Office, and approved, included £234,000 in connection with the recent constitutional changes in Newfoundland.

The Under-Secretary, Mr. Malcolm Macdonald, said the greater part of the money was required to meet the deficit in the current financial year, including provision for the payment of interest on the Newfoundland Public Debt.

The response to the Newfoundland debt conversion offer had been extremely satisfactory, and the saving during the six months had been about £150,000. In addition to the £234,000, a further £40,000 was being asked for in connexion with certain work of reconstruction and rehabilitation in Newfoundland.—British Wireless.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

Here is an interesting coup hand played by William A. Roof, Jr., president of the Cleveland Whist Club, one of the oldest whist organizations in the United States. The play of the hand is unusually interesting, due to the fact that it looks as though six odd can be made without any particular effort—but the hand must be played carefully to make the contract. West's overcall of one spade with three diamonds showed at least a game-going hand. East's bid of three hearts is constructive. It does, however, ugly diamonds. When East bids four spades over West's call of four diamonds, West is justified in taking the contract to six.

The Play
When the hand was played, Mr. Roof sat in the West. North opened the king of clubs, which Mr. Roof won with the ace. He now took three rounds of diamonds, dropping North's queen. He discarded a club and two spades from dummy.

Mr. Roof next cashed the king of hearts from dummy. If South had trumped, Mr. Roof would have over-trumped, picked up the outstanding trump, and then led a club, which North would have been forced to win with the queen. This would have established dummy's jack.

However, South refused to trump and discarded a club. Mr. Roof did the same. The queen of hearts was then led from dummy and South discarded a spade.

Mr. Roof discarded his other losing club and now all he had to do was to lose a diamond trick, and his contract was made.

Today's Contract Problem
West has doubled South's bid of five diamonds. West opens a heart, which East wins and follows with another heart. Now, how should South play the hand?

ACTIVITY OUTSIDE GT. WALL

STRICT MEASURES BEING TAKEN

THREAT TO UPSET CORONATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

Tientsin, March 6.

Strict precautionary measures are being simultaneously taken by the Chinese and Japanese authorities within and outside the Great Wall.

While the Chinese authorities in the Lüantung district are keeping a sharp look-out for traitors who are reported to be seeking opportunities to create disturbances in connexion with the coronation of Pu Yi, the Manchukuo-Japanese garrison forces in the Chinchow districts are fully occupied with the task of suppressing so-called bandit activities, which are particularly rife in the villages around Suichung and Chinchow.

VOLUNTEER RISING.

No detailed reports are available in regard to the actual extent of the Chinese Volunteer activity outside the Great Wall, but it is significant that a circular telegram issued in the name of the Chinese Volunteer Army in Manchuria appeared in the Chinese press yesterday. This telegram stated, inter alia, that the Volunteers had started a general mobilisation against the Japanese regime in Manchuria and "Chinese traitor." Big awards are being offered for the heads of 200 notorious "traitors," including Chen Shao-su and other Ministers of the Manchukuo Cabinet.

Meanwhile, the situation in Tientsin is quiet. No incident attended the Japanese manoeuvres which concluded yesterday.—Central News.

MUNITION MAKERS TAKEN TO TASK

FLAYED BY SENATOR BORAH

(Telegraph Special)

(By Telegraph. Copyright Telegraphic
Pages, Inc., 1934. All rights reserved.)

Washington, Mar. 5.

A stinging denunciation of the tactics of munitions manufacturers was delivered by Senator Borah in the course of a speech on the Navy Construction Bill.

Senator Borah advocated complete Government control of the manufacture of arms and munitions.

In the course of his references to the munitions manufacturers, he charged them with creating "estrangement and ill-will," of the type which was largely responsible for the situation which brought about the World War.—United Press.

GRIM WAR PICTURE.

Washington, March 5.

If war should come between the United States and Japan, American soldiers "would be torn limb from limb and disembowelled by munitions sold by our own compatriots," declared Senator Borah in opposing the $500,000,000 Naval Construction Bill on which the Senate will vote to-morrow.

Senator Borah asserted that American munition manufacturers were selling their products to the Orient.

It was not believed that arms manufacturers could cause a Japanese-American war, added Senator Borah, but if it should come, "even the approaching hour of the conflict would not stay the insatiable greed of the munitions manufacturers."—Reuter.

deemed it necessary to despol one of the finest sights of Kowloon by cutting down 36 banyan trees in

Nathan Road. As a matter of interest, I would like to know if anyone could give me some statistics as to the number of motor-car accidents that have occurred, either near any of these trees, or actually coming against them; also if the percentage of the total could be taken of accidents that have been caused directly or indirectly by the presence of these trees.

Another point is the erection of the unsightly barriers along Nathan Road, particularly in the area. Have these been built merely for adornment, or obstruction? As a driver of a car, I am much more afraid of coming against one of these obstructions in the middle of a road than a tree on the edge of it. As a pedestrian, I feel that a tree can give me more protection from the traffic.
